Terrorists Slay 10 In Algiers As Armistice Nears

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Armored cars and riot troops swarmed into the heart of Algiers today but European terrorists killed 10 more Moslems, virtually under the eyes of police.

The Algerian nationalist rebels' parliament was meeting in Tripoli and was expected to approve a cease-fire with the French before the day is over.

This was expected to touch off another eruption of violence by the secret army, enemy of both the rebels and the French government.

In its campaign to block Algeria independence and keep the territory French, the secret army Sunday staged one of its most daring attacks to date—a bazooka raid on a French military police barracks in the outskirts. At least 10 persons were reported slain and gasoline storage tanks were set afire.

French authorities retaliated by moving armed forces into Algiers from outlying bases, but still the killings went on in the crowded street of Algiers.

Six Moslems were slain on the Rue Michelet. Police arrested a European and said he admitted one of the attacks.

Four Moslem dead and one wounded were sprawled over a 100-yard stretch of sidewalk opposite the University of Algiers.

An aged Moslem with a pointed white beard and dressed in a flowing robe lay dead across the street from the U.S. Information Service library. A Moslem youth, badly wounded, huddled by his side. A young man who had passed just before the attack said they had been sitting on the sidewalk watching passersby when they were shot.

Over the weekend at least 56 persons were killed in what seemed to be indiscriminate attacks by European and Moslem terrorists. The Saturday toll was 30, and 26 were reported killed Sunday.

Some 800 Moslem students at the University of Agiers went on strike, protesting that police protection against the secret army terrorists was not adequate. Mail delivery men also continued a strike for more protection which they demanded after seven postmen on their rounds were shot last week.

Informed sources said Algerian leaders attending the secret conference of the National Council in Tripoli probably would hold up announcement of their acceptance of peace terms until rebel Pre-

Soviet Told Parley May Be In Offing

President Rejects Plan To Have High Leaders At Geneva

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has told Soviet Premier Khrushchev he hopes developments at the Geneva disarmament conference can lead to a summit meeting by June 1.

The United States and its Western allies reportedly are considering short-range disarmament proposals which they hope the Soviet Union might accept quickly at Geneva, thus providing a basis for a summit meeting in May. Included is a proposal banning transfer of nuclear weapons to other nations.

Kennedy's views were expressed Sunday in a 1,000-word note to Khrushchev rejecting the premier's second proposal that heads of the 18 nations involved open the Geneva talks March 14. The President, who wants the talks opened at the foreign ministers level, told Khrushchev that to have a heads of government meeting at the beginning of the conference "would be to begin with the wrong end of the problem."

Kennedy added the hope that "developments in the conference and internationally would make it useful to arrange for the personal participation of the heads of government before June 1."

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who conferred with Kennedy by telephone Friday when the President was drafting his reply to Khrushchev, also rejected the Soviet premier's bid for March summit talks. British officials said that Macmillan's reply, like Kennedy's, repeated the view that the conference should open at the foreign ministers level.

Kennedy firmly rejected Khrushchev's contention that possible U. S. resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing would be an aggressive act. He said it was strange that the Soviet Union, which broke the truce on atmospheric testing last fall, should now accuse the United States of aggression.

The Geneva conference is being held at the request of the

Macmillan Also Asks Summit Session Delay

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told Soviet Premier Khrushchev today he is "very ready" to join a summit parley on disarmament if negotiations make progress or run into deadlock.

In a mildly worded note, Macmillan expressed the view that "either of these situations may arise fairly soon."

The prime minister lined up with President Kennedy in rejecting Khrushchev's proposal that heads of government personally should give a flying start to the 18-power conference opening March 14 in Geneva under United Nations sponsorship.

Hero Talks To Session Of Congress

Astronaut Greeted With Parade, Fetes In Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. flew into Washington today, escorted by President Kennedy, for a day of high honors in the nation's capital.

The President's big jet plane, flying from West Palm Beach, Fla., with Glenn and his whole family aboard, landed at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland at 11:16 a.m. EST.

The landing was made under low ceiling short visibility conditions in a pouring rain.

The weather drove the opening ceremonies, planned for outdoors, into the shelter of a big hangar.

As the rain kept pouring down, plans for a helicopter flight to carry the astronaut from the air base were canceled and a motorcade was arranged.

The presidential limousine and a fleet of other cars wheeled into the hangar 15 minutes before the expected touchdown of the President's jet.

Already on hand were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Castor, Mrs. Glenn's parents, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Hosey of Pittsburgh.

They were flown from Florida, where they had spent the weekend with the Glenns, on an Air Force jet identical to the President's.

They took their place in the area of the hangar floor reserved for "distinguished guests."

It was just as wet downtown but the hardier ones gathered early along the route of the parade from the White House to the Capitol. A few dozen were on hand behind the ropes at the Capitol Plaza two hours before Glenn was due there to appear at a joint meeting of Congress.

A cab driver on Connecticut Avenue told a reporter en route to the White House:

"It seems like weather plays an important part in that feller (Glenn) doesn't it?

"I have seen a lot of women with children around the parade

Logic Urged By Kennedy For Guinea

Calm Study Asked In Dispute Between Holland, Indonesia

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy called today for both Indonesia and the Netherlands to take a "factual and rational" approach to the explosive issue of West New Guinea.

The U.S. attorney general, nearing the end of a world tour during which he has visited both the countries contending for the Southeast Asia island territory, clearly implied he found both the Dutch and Indonesians approached the issue emotionally rather than factualy.

"If a factual approach could be made and a genuine effort made by rational people" from both sides, he said, it might be possible to get both governments together at the conference table to work out a peaceful solution.

Kennedy refused to say whether he had made any suggestions to Foreign Minister Joseph M. A. H. Luns during a 70-minute conference they held today. Luns said they had a "good and friendly exchange" but that it was not conclusive since Kennedy is only on a fact-finding tour.

Aides to Kennedy said he brought no message from the Indonesian government to the Dutch.

Kennedy said his mission in both the Netherlands and Indonesia had been to hear the peoples' views and their suggestions for a peaceful solution. Asked whether he had made any suggestion to Indonesian President Sukarno, he replied that the United States is a friend of both Indonesia and the Netherlands.

"We, along with many other countries, are making efforts for a peaceful solution and to get the two parties sitting down to come to a settlement," he said.

Kennedy arrived Sunday from Bonn for a busy round of calls before flying this afternoon to Paris, his last stop before flying home.

India Vote Gives Menon Big Lead

BULLETIN

NEW DEHLI, India (AP) Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon took a big lead today in unofficial returns in the parliamentary race that put Prime Minister Nehru's prestige at stake. Menon had 30,728 votes to 16,424 for J. B. Kripalani, a disciple of Gandhi.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon today forged into an early lead in a bitterly contested parliamentary race that put Prime Minister Nehru's prestige at stake.

First returns gave Menon 7,129 votes to 5,095 for J. B. Kripalani, an old disciple of Gandhi backed by a coalition which charged Nehru's left-leaning policy confidante with being pro-Communist. The counting will not be completed until Wednesday.

Nehru took the stump for his aide, running in a north Bombay district, and argued his defeat would mean a setback for the ruling Congress party's development program.

The Congress party was off to a running start toward retaining overwhelming control of the National Parliament but there were indications its holdings in the 13 state legislatures might be weakened somewhat.

Although Nehru's party took 322 of the first 460 state assembly seats decided, this was a slight drop from the 1957 elections. The Congress party, although favored to win control of most and perhaps all of the state legislatures, had lost 45 seats it formerly held and picked up only 20 new ones. There are 2,930 state legislature seats in all.

Loss of assembly seats was not seen as any repudiation of Nehru. Indian voters in previous elections have generally supported him in the parliamentary elections and voted on local issues in the assembly races.

Nehru's party was returned to power in Madras state, winning 104 seats of the first 140 decided in the 206-member legislature.

The Congress party also captured the first three parliamentary seats counted and also picked up three other seats in the 507-member lower house in districts where its candidates were not opposed.

Women Hurt As Car Rams Embankment

Driver Leaves Site Of Mishap At End Of Newell Bridge

A city woman and another from New Cumberland were injured in a traffic crash early Sunday morning at the West Virginia end of the Newell Bridge.

In another accident at 1:36 a.m. today, a Washington (Pa.) truck driver was arrested when his rig loaded with old tires upset on the Route 30 Chester Hill.

Injured in the mishap at the bridge exit were Miss Melba Chapman, 20, of 888 Valley Ave., and Mrs. Ann Marsh, 26, of New Cumberland R. D. 2.

They were passengers in a car operated by Frank Hanlon, 404 Elm St., who was headed toward West Virginia and failed to negotiate the sharp curve at the bridge exit, according to Hancock County sheriff's deputies. The car struck an embankment across the road.

Deputies said Hanlon apparently turned around after the crash and drove back to Ohio before they arrived to investigate.

Miss Chapman was admitted to City Hospital after the crash but was released later. Mrs. Marsh is in "good" condition today in the hospital with a contusion of the left side of the face, laceration of the chin, and possible head injury.

The sheriff's office in New Cumberland had no other information on the crash, as the car had left the scene and returned to Ohio before the investigation could get underway, deputies said.

Joe Edwards, 39, of Washington was cited on a charge of failure to have his vehicle under control after the rig upset early today on Route 30, two-tenths of a mile east of Taylor's Bend, near Chester.

The sheriff's office said Edwards was proceeding downgrade when the brakes on the rig apparently failed.

The driver told deputies he attempted to slow the rig by changing to a lower gear. The rig went off the road on the right side onto a soft berm and upset against an embankment.

Edwards was lodged in County Jail in New Cumberland to await a hearing before Squire Eugene Allison of Chester. Deputies said a report on the mishap is incomplete.

Doubt Hinted For March 1 Pact In Steel

Labor Sources Say Talks At Pittsburgh Making Little Gain

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP)—Labor union sources reported today that steel negotiations in Pittsburgh have not progressed nearly so well as it is generally believed.

The basic terms for a new labor contract simply have not yet been determined, according to informed reports circulated here at the winter meeting of the AFL-IO Executive Council. The reports suggest that the friendly atmosphere of the talks has been no more than just that.

Both sides have been aiming informally at a March 1 settlement in response to President Kennedy's repeated urging for an early agreement to replace contracts expiring June 30. It is not now expected the March 1 target will be realized.

Over the weekend, the AFL-CIO council expressed alarm at the continuing high rate of unemployment and called for a combined drive for higher wages, a federal income tax cut and increased public works spending to expand purchasing power and create more jobs.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said in a locally televised interview that organized labor wanted to see the administration avoid "the coming Kennedy recession in the next six months or so."

The AFL-CIO leader said economic recovery has struck a snag and that interest rates again have started climbing. He advocated a flexible work week system that would reduce normal work hours below 40 a week in times of heavy unemployment but return them to the 40-hour level during full employment periods.

Sinus Delays First Lady's Indian Trip

Mrs. Kennedy Due To Leave March 12 For Asian Journey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that, because of a sinus infection, Mrs. John F. Kennedy has been forced to postpone the start of her India-Pakistan trip for a week. She is now due to begin the journey March 12.

The White House said the postponement was decided upon on the advice of the First Lady's physician.

She has been suffering from "a low-grade sinus infection for several months," press secretary Pierre Salinger said. The infection has caused an occasional fever, he added, but the fevers have been low.

The First Lady was at the airport in West Palm Beach, Fla., today to see her husband off on the flight bringing astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. and his family to Washington for a day of honors.

Sunday she went water skiing and took a dunking.

She did not make the trip back to the Capitol today, staying for a few more days in the sun.

Total In 4 Communities

Area Contributes $3,451 To Heart Fund Campaign

The Tri-State area contributed $3,451 in the annual Heart Sunday drive yesterday, part of the nationwide appeal for money to aid research into the causes of heart disease.

In the East Liverpool district, collections hit $1,952.48 as more than 300 workers solicited homes between 2 and 4 p.m. At Wellsville, the collections totaled about $550.

The Chester and Lawrenceville areas gave $207 and at Lisbon the drive netted $600.

At Newell, collections hit $142.

The co-chairmen of the local Heart Sunday project said the total does not include two envelopes from Calcutta and the contributions expected to be mailed in by many residents who were not at home during the canvass.

The workers left envelopes for mailing at homes where householders were absent. They are to be mailed to the address on the fund envelopes.

Although Sunday turned out to be a fair day, there was plenty of mud on the secondary streets to plague the workers. Not as mnay as expected showed up to solicit, and the Shadyside - Radio Heights, West End and Washington and Grant St. areas were not canvassed, the co-chairmen said.

A breakdown of the collection by areas follows:

Taft, $539.40; Lincoln, $210.83; Glenmoor, $52.13; LaCroft, $152.29; Neville, $92.47; Market St. west, $73.31; Horace Mann, $37.03; Garfield, $88.24; McKinley, $250.35.

22 Die As Plane Rams Venezuelan Mountain

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A Venezuelan airliner smashed into a mountain Sunday, killing the 22 persons aboard. All reportedly were Venezuelans.

The twin-engine turboprop plane of Avensa Airlines was coming in for a landing through clouds on the resort island of Margarita, off Venezuela's east coast. It burst into flames after it crashed.

The plane carried 19 passengers and a crew of three. It ran into bad weather after taking off from Carupano, in eastern Venezuela.

2nd Motorist Absolved

Negley Man Fined, Jailed For 125 MPH Drag Race

A Negley area driver who admitted speeding up to 125 miles an hour early Sunday on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. was given a 60-day term in the County Jail, fined $200 and costs and had his license revoked for 6 months after being convicted by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a drag racing charge filed by two Wellsville police officers.

The stiff penalty, along with a tongue - lashing, was handed Gordon Levan Reynolds of Negley R. D. 1, cited by Patrolmen Joseph A. Heiney and Charles Amato after a high speed pursuit early Sunday morning.

Robert Savors of Chester R. D. 1 was acquitted on a similar charge by Judge Chertoff, who ruled there was insufficient evidence to identify him as the other driver.

Reynolds and Savors both pleaded innocent.

The Negley man testified both cars were owned by Savors and said he was trying to stop the unidentified driver when he realized Savors was not at the wheel.

Savors, operator of a service station, said that he left the car outside his station and it was missing the following day. He denied driving the car but admitted the engine of the auto had been "souped up" for racing at drag strips.

Judge Chertoff commended the two officers for risking their lives to halt the speeding autos.

Following the testimony of the two officers, Reynolds took the stand and admitted the car he was driving, owned by Savors, reached a speed of 125 miles an hour.

He said he was trying to pass and halt the unidentified driver after realizing Savors, whom he described as "a good friend," was not at the wheel.

Reynolds said he saw the Ford pass him in Wellsville and pulled alongside when the driver suddenly pulled away. Realizing that Savor was not at the wheel, he gave chase and said he "wanted to do my duty" and halt the other driver.

Savors also took the stand, admitted loaning one car to Reynolds and described how the other car was missing when he returned

Request Eyed On Ordinance To Enact Tax

Setting the stage for consideration of a new city income tax at its March 5 meeting, Council will meet in special session tonight at 7 to act on a formal request for Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper to prepare the bulky legislation.

Notice of the special meeting was telephoned to councilmen Sunday afternoon by President Charles N. Edwards. He explained the extra session was called by the finance committee, comprised of Councilmen George E. Willshaw, chairman, Robert W. Sample Jr. and Edward Massey.

At least four affirmative votes — a bare majority of the seven members — would be required to enact a motion to instruct Cooper to proceed with preparation of the lengthy ordinance.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet proposed at a caucus with Council Feb. 12 that the tax be enacted again as the only equitable way in which the city can raise the money it needs to maintain adequate services and plan for capital improvements.

The question of the tax and straitened city finances has been before the new Council at virtually every session since its first on Jan. 8.

Willshaw has reported repeatedly on the city's need for additional revenue. He first cited an overdraft in the general fund and an accumulation of unpaid bills, the two items together totalling over $27,000. Then he reported that the general fund's income in 1962 will be down $98,000 this year, compared with 1961.

At the last session a week ago, Willshaw submitted a lengthy finance committee report ending with a recommendation for reenactment of the tax.

Loss of assembly seats was not seen as any repudiation of Nehru. Indian voters in previous elections have generally supported him in the parliamentary elections and voted on local issues in the assembly races.

Nehru's party was returned to power in Madras state, winning 104 seats of the first 140 decided in the 206-member legislature.

The Congress party also captured the first three parliamentary seats counted and also picked up three other seats in the 507-member lower house in districts where its candidates were not opposed.

Women Hurt As Car Rams Embankment

Driver Leaves Site Of Mishap At End Of Newell Bridge

A city woman and another from New Cumberland were injured in a traffic crash early Sunday morning at the West Virginia end of the Newell Bridge.

In another accident at 1:36 a.m. today, a Washington (Pa.) truck driver was arrested when his rig loaded with old tires upset on the Route 30 Chester Hill.

Injured in the mishap at the bridge exit were Miss Melba Chapman, 20, of 888 Valley Ave., and Mrs. Ann Marsh, 26, of New Cumberland R. D. 2.

They were passengers in a car operated by Frank Hanlon, 404 Elm St., who was headed toward West Virginia and failed to negotiate the sharp curve at the bridge exit, according to Hancock County sheriff's deputies. The car struck an embankment across the road.

Deputies said Hanlon apparently turned around after the crash and drove back to Ohio before they arrived to investigate.

Miss Chapman was admitted to City Hospital after the crash but was released later. Mrs. Marsh is in "good" condition today in the hospital with a contusion of the left side of the face, laceration of the chin, and possible head injury.

The sheriff's office in New Cumberland had no other information on the crash, as the car had left the scene and returned to Ohio before the investigation could get underway, deputies said.

Joe Edwards, 39, of Washington was cited on a charge of failure to have his vehicle under control after the rig upset early today on Route 30, two-tenths of a mile east of Taylor's Bend, near Chester.

The sheriff's office said Edwards was proceeding downgrade when the brakes on the rig apparently failed.

The driver told deputies he attempted to slow the rig by changing to a lower gear. The rig went off the road on the right side onto a soft berm and upset against an embankment.

Edwards was lodged in County Jail in New Cumberland to await a hearing before Squire Eugene Allison of Chester. Deputies said a report on the mishap is incomplete.

Request Eyed On Ordinance To Enact Tax

Setting the stage for consideration of a new city income tax at its March 5 meeting, Council will meet in special session tonight at 7 to act on a formal request for Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper to prepare the bulky legislation.

Notice of the special meeting was telephoned to councilmen Sunday afternoon by President Charles N. Edwards. He explained the extra session was called by the finance committee, comprised of Councilmen George E. Willshaw, chairman, Robert W. Sample Jr. and Edward Massey.

At least four affirmative votes — a bare majority of the seven members — would be required to enact a motion to instruct Cooper to proceed with preparation of the lengthy ordinance.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet proposed at a caucus with Council Feb. 12 that the tax be enacted again as the only equitable way in which the city can raise the money it needs to maintain adequate services and plan for capital improvements.

The question of the tax and straitened city finances has been before the new Council at virtually every session since its first on Jan. 8.

Willshaw has reported repeatedly on the city's need for additional revenue. He first cited an overdraft in the general fund and an accumulation of unpaid bills, the two items together totalling over $27,000. Then he reported that the general fund's income in 1962 will be down $98,000 this year, compared with 1961.

At the last session a week ago, Willshaw submitted a lengthy finance committee report ending with a recommendation for reenactment of the tax.

2nd Motorist Absolved

Negley Man Fined, Jailed For 125 MPH Drag Race

A Negley area driver who admitted speeding up to 125 miles an hour early Sunday on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. was given a 60-day term in the County Jail, fined $200 and costs and had his license revoked for 6 months after being convicted by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a drag racing charge filed by two Wellsville police officers.

The stiff penalty, along with a tongue - lashing, was handed Gordon Levan Reynolds of Negley R. D. 1, cited by Patrolmen Joseph A. Heiney and Charles Amato after a high speed pursuit early Sunday morning.

Robert Savors of Chester R. D. 1 was acquitted on a similar charge by Judge Chertoff, who ruled there was insufficient evidence to identify him as the other driver.

Reynolds and Savors both pleaded innocent.

The Negley man testified both cars were owned by Savors and said he was trying to stop the unidentified driver when he realized Savors was not at the wheel.

Savors, operator of a service station, said that he left the car outside his station and it was missing the following day. He denied driving the car but admitted the engine of the auto had been "souped up" for racing at drag strips.

Judge Chertoff commended the two officers for risking their lives to halt the speeding autos.

Following the testimony of the two officers, Reynolds took the stand and admitted the car he was driving, owned by Savors, reached a speed of 125 miles an hour.

He said he was trying to pass and halt the unidentified driver after realizing Savors, whom he described as "a good friend," was not at the wheel.

Reynolds said he saw the Ford pass him in Wellsville and pulled alongside when the driver suddenly pulled away. Realizing that Savor was not at the wheel, he gave chase and said he "wanted to do my duty" and halt the other driver.

Savors also took the stand, admitted loaning one car to Reynolds and described how the other car was missing when he returned

Area Contributes $3,451 To Heart Fund Campaign

The Tri-State area contributed $3,451 in the annual Heart Sunday drive yesterday, part of the nationwide appeal for money to aid research into the causes of heart disease.

In the East Liverpool district, collections hit $1,952.48 as more than 300 workers solicited homes between 2 and 4 p.m. At Wellsville, the collections totaled about $550.

The Chester and Lawrenceville areas gave $207 and at Lisbon the drive netted $600.

At Newell, collections hit $142.

The co-chairmen of the local Heart Sunday project said the total does not include two envelopes from Calcutta and the contributions expected to be mailed in by many residents who were not at home during the canvass.

The workers left envelopes for mailing at homes where householders were absent. They are to be mailed to the address on the fund envelopes.

Although Sunday turned out to be a fair day, there was plenty of mud on the secondary streets to plague the workers. Not as mnay as expected showed up to solicit, and the Shadyside - Radio Heights, West End and Washington and Grant St. areas were not canvassed, the co-chairmen said.

A breakdown of the collection by areas follows:

Taft, $539.40; Lincoln, $210.83; Glenmoor, $52.13; LaCroft, $152.29; Neville, $92.47; Market St. west, $73.31; Horace Mann, $37.03; Garfield, $88.24; McKinley, $250.35.

to the service station. He also described how the engine of the Ford had been changed.

The two officers said the chase started about 12:20 a. m. Sunday near the Wellsville city limits when they noticed the cars side by side and moving slowly.

Heiney related he was in the cruiser with Amato driving as they neared the end of the cruiser beat.

Deciding the drivers were preparing to race, Heiney said they started up the highway about 25 to 30 miles an hour when the two motorists pulled away.

He estimated the cruiser was traveling 100 to 105 miles an hour and "if they hadn't slowed for traffic, we wouldn't have touched them."

The cruiser finally passed Savor's auto and stopped Reynolds near Shadyside Ave. Heiney testified he got out to check on Reynolds when Savors' auto jumped the medial strip and the driver made a U-turn and started back toward Wellsville.

Under cross - examination by Savors, Heiney admitted he was unable to identify Savors positively as the driver, but said the car was registered to him and the physical appearance of the driver tallied with Savors.

Officer Amato testified he gave chase when Savors' Ford turned around and said he followed the car out the Campground Rd., where he lost it. A detainer was placed against the car and Savors was notified of the charge when he arrived to claim it.

Amato said he was unable to identify the driver, pointing out the driver made the turn about 50 yards behind the point where the cruiser was halted.

Meanwhile, two other drivers were fined and sentencing of a third was delayed for a week.

Earl F. Barkley of New Waterford R. D. 1, a trucker, was fined $50 and costs for operating a rig with defective brakes.

Barkley was cited Tuesday afternoon by the State Highway Patrol after his tractor with two loaded tanker trailers rammed the rear of a car turning from Route 7 into Beaver Local High School.

The patrol alleged the brakes on the second trailer were defective.

Donald A. Williams, 1055 Dresden Ave., was fined $20 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of speeding 70 miles an hour Saturday night on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. He was cited by the patrol.

Milton Paul Baker, 24, of 938 Lisbon St., cited by the patrol Saturday afternoon on Route 30 for a defective muffler, will be given a hearing before Judge Chertoff Thursday at 9 a. m.

Clinton Rogers Alderman, 217 Market St., pleaded guilty to charges of operating an auto without a certificate of title and for failing to display license plates.

Judge Chertoff delayed sentencing of Alderman until next Monday and told the defendant if he furnishes proof he has disposed of the auto it will be taken into consideration when sentence is pronounced.

Alderman was cited by police at 12:51 a. m. Saturday on Harvey Ave.

Bossy, The Statue, Wasn't Even Missed

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A 250-pound life - size statue of a cow was turned into the missing properties division of the Phoenix Police Department.

Dutifully, the police notified a shopping center where one of them recalled seeing such an animal on display.

Sure enough, the statue was missing. But the first shopping center officials knew about its disappearance was when they learned it had been found.

Family-On-Earth Program

Soon there will be another group of young American men chosen for astronaut training. They will pick up the man-in-space program where the original astronauts leave off when their work is done.

No one doubts that the second group — and the third and fourth groups — will be as capable as the first. And a certainty in passing, while the appearance and behavior of Col. John Glenn's family are still fresh in our minds, is that the families of the future astronauts also will lend the same deep satisfaction to the American people.

It is granted that all future astronauts will be selected, as were the first ones, with an eye to the stability of their family lives. These are not necessarily typical family groups, yet they are typical of a kind of family that is a source of deep satisfaction for Americans.

Sometimes there seems to be an impression that American family life has been undermined. Over-emphasis on the troubles of the few can be blamed. Social worriers would have us believe family conditions have become so bad there is no room for hope. To hear them tell about it, the rule has become the exception and only rarely do they run across family groups in which no homes are broken, no consultation with psychiatrists is needed and no one is being cheated out of a full and satisfying life.

The reason for this misconception is obvious.

The social worriers are obsessed by their worries. They are not in the business of looking for cheerful evidence of normalcy in family life.

As each astronaut takes his turn in the man-in-space program, a new family comes into the spotlight. Having met the Shepard, Grissom and Glenn groups, is there an American who doesn't feel better about a much older program — the family - on - earth program?

These are ordinary people who have been thrust into extraordinary situations. They have been charming — all of them. There are many things about outer space that will remain forever mysterious to all but the astronautical elite. But there is nothing mysterious about American family life at its best — a triumph of love over adversity. It's still here.

Glenn Freeway?

This question has been heard: "Why not name the new freeway the John Glenn Freeway?"

Why not! The suggestion sounds like one well worth exploring.

It is something the administration and the Chamber of Commerce might look into. In view of the circumstances, it seems highly probable that whatever barriers might stand in the way could be removed. It would be a fitting tribute to an outstanding American.

Since many other areas quite likely have ideas along similar lines, it seems expedient to get the ball rolling in a hurry.

Security For Private Pensions

Walter Reuther's proposal to cover pension plans with the same kind of government security that guarantees bank deposits has the ring and feel of sound logic.

If it is proper for the federal government to guarantee private loans for housing, various kinds of buildings, deposits in private banks and agricultural production, it clearly would be proper to guarantee the payment of pensions representing the security of citizens who have retired from wage-earning.

It may be expected that opposition will be offered by employers, mindful of the fact the payments for underwriting pension funds would be taken out of their financial hides. There were banks that opposed the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation for the same reason.

But since pension plans have become as essential to the confidence of employes in their employers as the security of their savings is to the confidence of depositors, the long-range benefits of an "insurance" plan cannot be doubted.

The benefits are not wholly personal; they are important to the entire economic community. An employer whose ability to meet a pension commitment was wiped out by financial adversity could upset the business stability of an entire community, even in a few instances the entire country.

Moreover, if prolonged business adversity in some future time undermined the security of a number of pension plans at the same time, the effect could be as shattering as the closing of banks in the early '30s.

Pension plans are now an integral part of the Social Security system; they are integrated into the federal program of stabilizing the purchasing power of retired and disabled workers. Whatever needs to be done to make certain they do what they were designed to do is worth doing.

Prelude To Spring

With spring not too far away, it's fitting that serious thought be given to some "beauty treatments" that could help brighten the face of the city of East Liverpool.

For what they are worth, here are a few suggestions:

1. — That hardy perennial, steps to improve the river - front area through the cutting of trees and brush, the planting of grass where advisable and a cleanup in general.

2. — An inspection of streets, with a view of eliminating junk automobiles that have been allowed to mar the scene too long.

2. — A re-examination of welcoming signs that stand at various entrances to the city. If they are in satisfactory condition, well and good. If they need paint or other repairs, such repairs should be made by the responsible parties or the signs removed.

4. — The same for all other signs.

These are a few of the things that could be done as the prelude to even greater improvements.

Good Show

A full house enjoyed the annual county-wide band and choral program Friday night at Beaver Local High School.

The turnout must have been heartwarming to students from the 10 Columbiana County high schools who took part and to the music instructors who worked so hard to make the concert a success.

Once more a salute to the musical phase of our educational program.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

"Let's get together and get nowhere under one tent," is invitation of Khrushchev. He wants head of state at 18-nation disarmament summit meeting. Uncle Sam is against putting varsity into Geneva Run-around Stadium until junior teams have warmed up and demonstrated contest is not being played under rules of ice hockey.

There have already been 383 sessions at Geneva on disarmament, all of which could have been staged under title of "The Global Follies."

Trouble is that if President Kennedy and some other heads of state on our side don't go to Geneva, Nikita will gladly take over spotlight, as troublesome as "The Man Who Came To Dinner."

He could give matinee performance of "King LEER," and "I Love Lucerne" and toss in weird roughness of Hollywood's early "Perils of Pauline." Khrushchev is world's "best bad actor" and is scene-chewer extraordinary, playing villain, hero or widow driven out into the ice and snow.

He also does card tricks, gives imitations, does birdcalls and has repertorie including acts as monologist, sword-swallower, flame-eater, contortionist and specialist in Siberian Trained Dove Act.

It's possible he is determined to make Geneva a center of show business and promote doubletalk in yodeling zone. Gromyko must have come home with the words "It's impossible to gum up works as well with a limited company as with a big cast."

As Max Frankel says, Nikita seems to be "galloping to the summit crying, 'last man up is a warmonger.' "

Russia still wields super - monkeywrench in demand that disarmament be voted without inspections for cheating.

This is like a group of neighbors agreeing to stop storing dynamite in garage but insisting that there be no peeking. Uncle Sam wants no disarmament agreement with April Fools' Day as its symbol.

Sugar Ray Robinson, easily licked by youngster in last fight, seemed to be trying out as candidate for Nobel Peace Prize.

Frank Stevens, head of the famed catering family functioning at scores of ballparks and racetracks, is an extra game guy. Although under physical handicaps that would make most men quit, he goes to office by wheelchair daily. Auto and elevators make trip possible and this extra remarkable businessman and sportsman puts in day at desk, performing with gusto and good humor.

New York public schools have 5,000 pianos out of tune through refusal to pay current rates charged by tuners. With all the instruments off key it's no wonder so many kids graduate with no ear for music.

Jackie Gleason is reported planning early return to TV, but opposed to resuming "The Honeymooners." Gleason is something of a comic genius, but he always seemed at his peak as a truly fine actor in this series. We tune into the "reruns" and find his performance in this series even better than we thought before.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and Secretary McNamara demonstrated the "twist" with charm and wonderful rhythm at White House dance. "Twistmanship" always makes us less nervous than "brinkmanship."

'Firsts' That Proved Sensational

By David Lawrence

What do "firsts" really mean? Time was when Lindbergh was the first to fly alone non-stop across the Atlantic to Paris. Who remembers the year and that it took him 33 hours?

David Lawrence

Today, it is routine to fly the Atlantic to Paris in seven hours. Maybe it soon will be routine for people to take a world cruise in the skies on Sunday afternoon and go around the earth in 90 minutes.

What, however, really compares with the sensational reaction of the American people to the feat of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn in circling the globe three times in one day? Probably the most thrilling moment the American people ever experienced previously was the announcement that a cable had been laid successfully in the Atlantic Ocean to Europe on Aug. 10, 1858, after repeated attempts had failed in prior years.

While the flight around the world by Col. Glenn doesn't immediately change the life of a single person here or abroad, the laying of the Atlantic Cable affected at once peoples on both sides of the ocean.

Prior to that time, it took many weeks to get a letter by boat to relatives in Europe and many more weeks to receive a reply.

The anxieties that were felt when members of the family were ill can hardly be described even in retrospect.

The most graphic statement of the emotions of the American people after the laying of the Atlantic cable comes from the pen of George Templeton Strong, a famous New York lawyer whose diary was published by the MacMillan Co. in 1952 — a half century after his death. He wrote:

"Aug. 10, 1858 — everybody all agog about the Atlantic cable. Telegraph offices in Wall Street decorated with flags of all nations and sundry, fancy pennants suspended across the street. Newspapers full of the theme and of the demonstrations the event has produced from New Orleans to Portland.

"Newspapers vie with each other in grandiloquence. Yesterday's 'Herald' said that the cable —or Cyrus W. Field — is undoubtedly the angel of the book of Revelation with one foot on sea and one foot on land, proclaiming that time shall be no longer. Moderate people merely say that this is the greatest human achievement. . . .

"If no great revolution or cataclysm throws mankind off the track they've been traveling for the last half century, if the earth doesn't blow up or get foul of a comet, it will be a strange place in 1958, most unlike it is now. The diverse races of men certainly seem tending toward development into a living organic unit with railroads and steampackets for a circulating system, telegraph wires for nerves, and the London Times and New York Herald for a brain."

THE WILDEST enthusiasm reigned in the old world and the new on that day as copper cable was laid beneath the ocean from Ireland to Newfoundland. Three times the cable had broken, but when success was finally achieved Queen Victoria and President Buchanan "exchanged messages amid jubilant celebrations," and the book reports that "so many fireworks were let off in New York city that the City Hall caught fire."

What other "firsts" proved sensational? Certainly the introduction of the telephone was received with more enthusiasm than the telegraph. The great advances of mankind that have occasioned the biggest celebrations have been in the field of communication. While perhaps of more benefit to individuals, the discovery of a cure for each of the many serious ailments of man have hardly occasioned the public celebrations or outbursts that have attended the spectacular feats in communication.

Effective propaganda will be derived now by the United States from the flight around the world by Col. Glenn. It puts America on the front pages of newspapers all over the world. It even causes Soviet Premier Khrushchev to get in on the worldwide publicity act by his sanctimonious offer of cooperation hereafter with the United States in space ventures.

AGAIN AND AGAIN the United States government has sought to cooperate with the Soviet Union in scientific experiments. At the very session of the United Nations when Nikita Khrushchev took off his shoe and banged away, President Eisenhower proposed to the U.N. General Assembly that no nation should "put into orbit or station in outer space weapons of mass destruction" and that "international cooperation for constructive peaceful uses of outer space under the United Nations" should be agreed upon.

The Soviet government has repeatedly promised to furnish information about what it is doing in outer space but has failed to follow through with its promises. Maybe some day there'll be another "first" to record — when the Soviet government promises something and then keeps its promise.

The Weather

Climatologists are working toward the day when they can do something about the weather.

Already it is possible to change the trend of weather in limited areas, or "microclimates," the National Geographic Society says.

Small, but measurable, effects on climate are induced by creating new lakes, changing river courses, planting forests and artificially suppressing evaporation.

Cities are among the greatest man-made influences on microclimates. The downtown area of a city and nearby rural areas often have startling differences in weather.

Compared with its rural neighbors, a city has 5 to 10 per cent more clouds and precipitation. Temperatures average 1 to 2 degrees higher. The windspeed in a city is 20 to 30 per cent less than in the surrounding country and the relative humidity is 3 to 10 per cent lower.

Soviet Scoreboard

Russian Diplomacy Seen Inconsistent

WASHINGTON

Some of it is tricky, some of it is propaganda, and some of it seems to make no sense.

You need a scorecard to follow the Russian maneuvers — the soft and tough — on disarmament, nuclear testing, summitry, Berlin and the exchange of spies and relatives.

Premier Khrushchev's latest call for a summit, and President Kennedy's rejection of it Sunday, at least for the time being, is only the most recent in a mish-mash of events.

If a whole series of friendly gestures had been followed by harsh ones, they could be listed separately and an obvious conclusion drawn: That Khrushchev had switched his tactics.

But they're not separate. They're interwoven. They're so mixed up they sometimes make Khrushchev look mixed up. Take this past year.

Shortly after Kennedy took office in 1961 Khrushchev released two American RB47 bomber pilots shot down off the Russian coast in 1960. That was a friendly start.

It remained pleasant, except for some jarring minor episodes, until June 1961, when Kennedy and Khrushchev met in Vienna and the Russian made his demands on Berlin. Then for months he built a crisis.

He climaxed it Aug. 13 by setting up a wall between East and West Berlin. Then he let the crisis dwindle, as if he felt he had established unchallenged the principle of the separation of East and West Germany.

He began a crisis elsewhere. For three years the United States, Britain and Russia had stopped nuclear testing while they talked in Geneva about agreeing to a permanent ban on it.

Then on Sept. 1, with only one day's warning, while the talks were still going on, Russia resumed testing. No nation can test suddenly. So Russia had been planning this for months.

In October, Khrushchev had a mean split with his Red Chinese allies. Whether this had something to do with what followed for months is not know, but from October until this year Khrushchev remained almost silent.

In the meantime, as a friendly gesture, in November he let his son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia, interview Kennedy and permitted the interview to be published in Moscow.

Things looked calm but not for long. Events picked up after the first of the year.

In January the United States and Britain agreed to the Russian demand to merge the talks. Then suddenly the Russians switched; wanted no part of it. The nuclear test-ban talks, extending over years and 353 sessions, broke up Jan. 29.

Just as this was happening, Khrushchev sent his son-in-law back to Washington to lunch with Kennedy, and Moscow invited the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to Russia. He declined.

On Feb. 7 Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan suggested the big powers could show they meant business at the March 14 disarmament talks by sending their foreign ministers there.

Three days later, although it had been long in the works, Khrushchev released Francis Gary Powers, the captured U2 spy plane pilot, in exchange for Col. Rudolf I. Abel, the Soviet spy captured here. Moscow itself called this a friendly Russian gesture.

The next day, Feb. 11, Khrushchev outdid Kennedy and Macmillan on how to start off the disarmament talks next month. He said they should begin with a summit meeting.

Kennedy and Macmillan turned this down, suggesting there could be a summit meeting if East and West representatives at Geneva made some progress.

Last week, in hurt tones, Khrushchev fired back another bid for a summit. Sunday Kennedy released his reply to this, saying what he had said before, but still leaving the door open to a summit.

Meanwhile things were getting mixed up again. Russian fighters had started annoying Western planes using the Berlin air corridors. And, once again, Russia switched and agreed to the idea of merging test-ban talks with disarmament talks.

But Russia made all the talks look a little ridiculous by stating beforehand that they wouldn't agree to an inspection system before there was disarmament, which is just the opposite of what the United States says it wants.

February Fantods

By Truman Twill

Do you have that desperate February feeling?

If so, join the throng. As a public service, this column has been studying the February Fantods.

One of these patterns may coincide with yours:

1. Morning Misery. In this variation of the February Fantods the victim struggles out of a deep sleep like a worm wriggling to the top of a bucket of glue, gasping whether he lives or dies and is, in fact, capable of falling in a heap to await the Reaper without a struggle. Principal symptom: Aching in head, joints, stomach, teeth, ears, eyes, arms, legs and back.

2. Midday Moods. In this variation, victim gets off to fair start from scratch in a.m. and won't finish too far off pace in p.m. but withers on vine around lunch. By midday has lost his early wind and not started to get his second wind and has feeling he is deflated toy balloon, which he strongly resembles.

3. Mental Miasma. Victim has sensation top of head has been lifted for insertion of fog nozzle that fills brain box with cold mist. Cannot see anything clearly, comprehend anything clearly, or even be lucid about own middle name.

4. Grumbling Grimmies. Principal symptom is tendency to complain about real and imaginary grievances, illnesses and injustices, ranging from persecution by unidentified forces to symptoms of terminal illness. Notable tendency toward morbidity and other hopeless attitudes.

5. Defeatism. Typical victim inclined to smile vapidly, shrug shoulders, spread out hands with palm upward and declare in tone of resignation, "You can't win so why beat your head against a stone wall?" This is sometimes changed to "brick wall," depending on whether patient was reared in stone country or brick country.

6. Frazzled. Sensation of being the camel whose back broke. Suddenly, the burden of life's little annoyances becomes unbearable —and c-r-r-r-a-c-k! An explosion. The men with the nets are called. None too soon, either.

7. Evening Slump. May occur at any time but acute in late winter when victim barely makes it from feed trough to recovery room before melting into a glob of somnolence cuddled comfortably in encircling arms of Morpheus, unable to stir until scene shifts to bedroom where more of same takes place until morning.

8. Dead End. In this variety of the February Fantods, patient feels he has made a wrong turn on life's broad highway into a dead-end street with no room to turn around and not enough courage to back out because he might run over more or less innocent people who have closed in behind and are blocking the view. Probably commonest of all February Fantods, because it's associated with all other forms and is direct root source of Grumbling Grimmies and Defeatism.

If your trouble fits any of these patterns, you are having a normal winter and can reply in truth when asked how you are, "Well all things considered, I am as good as can be expected, unless you're one of those pinheads who think something's wrong with people who must pinch themselves from time to time to make sure they haven't died and started to endure punishment in store for misspending their lives."

Odd Facts

A 16-station network has been set up around the world to follow and protect America's astronauts in orbit. The Mercury-tracking outposts can locate a spacecraft flying five miles a second, talk to the man it carries, measure the performance of the astronaut and his vehicle, and by radio signals bring him back to earth.

The most common minimum marrying age in the U. S. is 21 years for men and 18 for women — or 18 and 16 with parental approval. However the bride can be as young as 14 in eight states and the bridegroom as young as 15 in two states and 16 in ten states.

While the flight around the world by Col. Glenn doesn't immediately change the life of a single person here or abroad, the laying of the Atlantic Cable affected at once peoples on both sides of the ocean.

Prior to that time, it took many weeks to get a letter by boat to relatives in Europe and many more weeks to receive a reply.

The anxieties that were felt when members of the family were ill can hardly be described even in retrospect.

The most graphic statement of the emotions of the American people after the laying of the Atlantic cable comes from the pen of George Templeton Strong, a famous New York lawyer whose diary was published by the MacMillan Co. in 1952 — a half century after his death. He wrote:

"Aug. 10, 1858 — everybody all agog about the Atlantic cable. Telegraph offices in Wall Street decorated with flags of all nations and sundry, fancy pennants suspended across the street. Newspapers full of the theme and of the demonstrations the event has produced from New Orleans to Portland.

"Newspapers vie with each other in grandiloquence. Yesterday's 'Herald' said that the cable —or Cyrus W. Field — is undoubtedly the angel of the book of Revelation with one foot on sea and one foot on land, proclaiming that time shall be no longer. Moderate people merely say that this is the greatest human achievement. . . .

"If no great revolution or cataclysm throws mankind off the track they've been traveling for the last half century, if the earth doesn't blow up or get foul of a comet, it will be a strange place in 1958, most unlike it is now. The diverse races of men certainly seem tending toward development into a living organic unit with railroads and steampackets for a circulating system, telegraph wires for nerves, and the London Times and New York Herald for a brain."

THE WILDEST enthusiasm reigned in the old world and the new on that day as copper cable was laid beneath the ocean from Ireland to Newfoundland. Three times the cable had broken, but when success was finally achieved Queen Victoria and President Buchanan "exchanged messages amid jubilant celebrations," and the book reports that "so many fireworks were let off in New York city that the City Hall caught fire."

What other "firsts" proved sensational? Certainly the introduction of the telephone was received with more enthusiasm than the telegraph. The great advances of mankind that have occasioned the biggest celebrations have been in the field of communication. While perhaps of more benefit to individuals, the discovery of a cure for each of the many serious ailments of man have hardly occasioned the public celebrations or outbursts that have attended the spectacular feats in communication.

Effective propaganda will be derived now by the United States from the flight around the world by Col. Glenn. It puts America on the front pages of newspapers all over the world. It even causes Soviet Premier Khrushchev to get in on the worldwide publicity act by his sanctimonious offer of cooperation hereafter with the United States in space ventures.

AGAIN AND AGAIN the United States government has sought to cooperate with the Soviet Union in scientific experiments. At the very session of the United Nations when Nikita Khrushchev took off his shoe and banged away, President Eisenhower proposed to the U.N. General Assembly that no nation should "put into orbit or station in outer space weapons of mass destruction" and that "international cooperation for constructive peaceful uses of outer space under the United Nations" should be agreed upon.

The Soviet government has repeatedly promised to furnish information about what it is doing in outer space but has failed to follow through with its promises. Maybe some day there'll be another "first" to record — when the Soviet government promises something and then keeps its promise.

The Weather

Climatologists are working toward the day when they can do something about the weather.

Already it is possible to change the trend of weather in limited areas, or "microclimates," the National Geographic Society says.

Small, but measurable, effects on climate are induced by creating new lakes, changing river courses, planting forests and artificially suppressing evaporation.

Cities are among the greatest man-made influences on microclimates. The downtown area of a city and nearby rural areas often have startling differences in weather.

Compared with its rural neighbors, a city has 5 to 10 per cent more clouds and precipitation. Temperatures average 1 to 2 degrees higher. The windspeed in a city is 20 to 30 per cent less than in the surrounding country and the relative humidity is 3 to 10 per cent lower.

Changing climate on a large scale would call for grandiose measures, however.

Russian Diplomacy Seen Inconsistent

WASHINGTON

Some of it is tricky, some of it is propaganda, and some of it seems to make no sense.

You need a scorecard to follow the Russian maneuvers — the soft and tough — on disarmament, nuclear testing, summitry, Berlin and the exchange of spies and relatives.

Premier Khrushchev's latest call for a summit, and President Kennedy's rejection of it Sunday, at least for the time being, is only the most recent in a mishmash of events.

If a whole series of friendly gestures had been followed by harsh ones, they could be listed separately and an obvious conclusion drawn: That Khrushchev had switched his tactics.

But they're not separate. They're interwoven. They're so mixed up they sometimes make Khrushchev look mixed up. Take this past year.

Shortly after Kennedy took office in 1961 Khrushchev released two American RB47 bomber pilots shot down off the Russian coast in 1960. That was a friendly start.

It remained pleasant, except for some jarring minor episodes, until June 1961, when Kennedy and Khrushchev met in Vienna and the Russian made his demands on Berlin. Then for months he built a crisis.

He climaxed it Aug. 13 by setting up a wall between East and West Berlin. Then he let the crisis dwindle, as if he felt he had established unchallenged the principle of the separation of East and West Germany.

He began a crisis elsewhere. For three years the United States, Britain and Russia had stopped nuclear testing while they talked in Geneva about agreeing to a permanent ban on it.

Then on Sept. 1, with only one day's warning, while the talks were still going on, Russia resumed testing. No nation can test suddenly. So Russia had been planning this for months.

In October, Khrushchev had a mean split with his Red Chinese allies. Whether this had something to do with what followed for months is not know, but from October until this year Khrushchev remained almost silent.

In the meantime, as a friendly gesture, in November he let his son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia, interview Kennedy and permitted the interview to be published in Moscow.

Things looked calm but not for long. Events picked up after the first of the year.

In January the United States and Britain agreed to the Russian demand to merge the talks. Then suddenly the Russians switched; wanted no part of it. The nuclear test-ban talks, extending over years and 353 sessions, broke up Jan. 29.

Just as this was happening, Khrushchev sent his son-in-law back to Washington to lunch with Kennedy, and Moscow invited the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to Russia. He declined.

On Feb. 7 Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan suggested the big powers could show they meant business at the March 14 disarmament talks by sending their foreign ministers there.

Three days later, although it had been long in the works, Khrushchev released Francis Gary Powers, the captured U2 spy plane pilot, in exchange for Col. Rudolf I. Abel, the Soviet spy captured here. Moscow itself called this a friendly Russian gesture.

The next day, Feb. 11, Khrushchev outdid Kennedy and Macmillan on how to start off the disarmament talks next month. He said they should begin with a summit meeting.

Kennedy and Macmillan turned this down, suggesting there could be a summit meeting if East and West representatives at Geneva made some progress.

Last week, in hurt tones, Khrushchev fired back another bid for a summit. Sunday Kennedy released his reply to this, saying what he had said before, but still leaving the door open to a summit.

Meanwhile things were getting mixed up again. Russian fighters had started annoying Western planes using the Berlin air corridors. And, once again, Russia switched and agreed to the idea of merging test-ban talks with disarmament talks.

But Russia made all the talks look a little ridiculous by stating beforehand that they wouldn't agree to an inspection system before there was disarmament, which is just the opposite of what the United States says it wants.

February Fantods

By Truman Twill

Do you have that desperate February feeling?

If so, join the throng. As a public service, this column has been studying the February Fantods.

One of these patterns may coincide with yours:

1. Morning Misery. In this variation of the February Fantods the victim struggles out of a deep sleep like a worm wriggling to the top of a bucket of glue, gasping whether he lives or dies and is, in fact, capable of falling in a heap to await the Reaper without a struggle. Principal symptom: Aching in head, joints, stomach, teeth, ears, eyes, arms, legs and back.

2. Midday Moods. In this variation, victim gets off to fair start from scratch in a.m. and won't finish too far off pace in p.m. but withers on vine around lunch. By midday has lost his early wind and not started to get his second wind and has feeling he is deflated toy balloon, which he strongly resembles.

3. Mental Miasma. Victim has sensation top of head has been lifted for insertion of fog nozzle that fills brain box with cold mist. Cannot see anything clearly, comprehend anything clearly, or even be lucid about own middle name.

4. Grumbling Grimmies. Principal symptom is tendency to complain about real and imaginary grievances, illnesses and injustices, ranging from persecution by unidentified forces to symptoms of terminal illness. Notable tendency toward morbidity and other hopeless attitudes.

5. Defeatism. Typical victim inclined to smile vapidly, shrug shoulders, spread out hands with palm upward and declare in tone of resignation, "You can't win so why beat your head against a stone wall?" This is sometimes changed to "brick wall," depending on whether patient was reared in stone country or brick country.

6. Frazzled. Sensation of being the camel whose back broke. Suddenly, the burden of life's little annoyances becomes unbearable —and c-r-r-r-a-c-k! An explosion. The men with the nets are called. None too soon, either.

7. Evening Slump. May occur at any time but acute in late winter when victim barely makes it from feed trough to recovery room before melting into a glob of somnolence cuddled comfortably in encircling arms of Morpheus, unable to stir until scene shifts to bedroom where more of same takes place until morning.

8. Dead End. In this variety of the February Fantods, patient feels he has made a wrong turn on life's broad highway into a dead-end street with no room to turn around and not enough courage to back out because he might run over more or less innocent people who have closed in behind and are blocking the view. Probably commonest of all February Fantods, because it's associated with all other forms and is direct root source of Grumbling Grimmies and Defeatism.

If your trouble fits any of these patterns, you are having a normal winter and can reply in truth when asked how you are, "Well all things considered, I am as good as can be expected, unless you're one of those pinheads who think something's wrong with people who must pinch themselves from time to time to make sure they haven't died and started to endure punishment in store for misspending their lives."

Odd Facts

A 16-station network has been set up around the world to follow and protect America's astronauts in orbit. The Mercury-tracking outposts can locate a spacecraft flying five miles a second, talk to the man it carries, measure the performance of the astronaut and his vehicle, and by radio signals bring him back to earth.

The most common minimum marrying age in the U. S. is 21 years for men and 18 for women — or 18 and 16 with parental approval. However the bride can be as young as 14 in eight states and the bridegroom as young as 15 in two states and 16 in ten states.

Mud Buries 3 Skindivers In New York

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP)—Three skindivers died Sunday when a mud slide trapped them 130 feet under water in an abandoned stone quarry and their air supplies ran out.

A fourth diver, who made a daring attempt to rescue them, was reported in fair condition at a hospital today, suffering from shock. He knew his own breathing apparatus was defective when he made the rescue attempt.

Those asphyxiated were: Jack Lepinski, 27, of Wakefield, Mich., a U.S. Air Force man who had been attending courses at an International Business Machines Corp. plant here; David Lasher, 32, and William Mills Sr., 45, both of this city on the Hudson River.

Under treatment at Benedictine Hospital is Gerry Klemm, 27, of Kingston, who attempted the rescue.

Eight members of the Ulster County Skindivers Club went to the quarry, a favorite spot for skindivers because the water—200 feet deep at spots—doesn't freeze in the winter.

Lepinski, Lasher, Mills and Klemm entered a narrow tunnel and made their way to the dark quarry shaft 150 feet inside a hill.

Klemm's oxygen regulator did not operate properly, and he remained at the top to hold ropes tied to each of the others. When they failed to give the customary periodic tugs on their ropes to let him know they were all right, Klemm rushed outside and told the other club members to call police. He then sped back into the tunnel, put on his own defective apparatus and dived into the pool to search for his companions, who had a one-hour air supply.

Klemm found them partially buried in mud. The bodies of Lepinski and Lasher were lifted to the surface on ropes. Police and firemen tried in vain for two hours to revive them.

The rope attached to Mills' waist broke as the other divers tried to lift him.

New Hearing Set On Canal

The Army Corps of Engineers has set a second public hearing Monday, March 26, in Pittsburgh on a proposal to build a canal linking the Ohio River at Rochester with Lake Erie at Ashtabula.

The hearing will begin at 9:30 a. m. in Rockwell Hall at Duquesne University. Several weeks ago, the engineers had announced a second hearing would be held on the project, but the date was not set until last weekend.

In effect, it will give Western Pennsylvania opponents of the canal plan to have their innings. Most of the testimony was friendly toward the project at the first hearing about six weeks ago in Youngstown.

Rep. Michael Kirwan of Youngstown fathered the revival of the project and it has been supported by the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. and the United Steel Workers Union in the Mahoning County area as a way of gaining low-cost water transport for the landlocked steel mills.

In its 105-mile path, the canal would follow the courses of the Beaver and Mahoning Rivers, then go through Youngstown and into Lake Erie via a huge reservoir impounded by a dam on the Grand River.

Pittsburgh interests have contended the waterway would benefit Northeast Ohio steel plants to the disadvantage of Pittsburgh industry. Opponents estimate the cost at $2,750,000,000 and refer to it as "a billion dollar ditch."

The Pittsburgh hearing will be conducted by Col. Bert de Melker, chief of the Pittsburgh District Army Engineers.

Worker Over 65 Can Get Benefits And Stay On Job

Some employed persons over 65 may be unaware they are entitled to Social Security benefits, according to William J. McCauley, head of the Youngstown District Social Security office.

A recent change in the law makes it possible for many more older people to work and still be paid some Social Security benefits. You don't have to retire completely to get benefits, McCauley said.

Under the law as it stands now, you can earn up to $1,200 a year and still collect benefits for every month. If you earn over $1,200 a year, you will lose some benefits. One dollar of benefits is withheld for each $2 earned between $1,200 and $1,700. For every $1 earned over $1,700, $1 of benefits will be withheld.

For example, if you earned $2,100 a year, $650 in benefits would be held back. If your monthly benefit rate amounted to $120, your yearly benefit amount of $1,440 would be reduced by $650, permitting you to get $790 in benefits for the year.

If you have dependents eligible for benefits, your earnings can be correspondingly higher without losing all of your benefits.

The Youngstown office is at 35 Central Square. The telephone number is 744-8961.

Algeria

mier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda returns to Tunis, permanent headquarters of his National Liberation Front—FLN.

The French Cabinet already has approved the agreement to end the 7½-year war.

The 54 members of the rebel parliament have been holding secret day and night sessions since their arrival in Tripoli last Thursday. As Sunday night's session ended, Ferhat Abbas, former rebel premier and a leader of the FLN, hinted agreement was near.

In one of their heaviest attacks so far, commandos of the Secret Army Organization fired bazooka rockets into a French military police barracks Sunday night at Maison Caree, a suburb of Algiers, setting gasoline storage tanks ablaze.

Early reports said at least 10 persons were killed or wounded in the attack.

Fire engines summoned to fight the raging fires were blocked by machine gun fire for nearly an hour. The French army rushed six heavy tanks and a score of other armored vehicles into the area.

Firemen finally quelled the blaze which had spread to an ammunition dump, touching off many cartridges. The glow of the fire was visible in Algiers. The exploding bullets could be heard in the city.

The bazooka attack was the third assault on the Maison Carree barracks in the past two weeks. It was believed the recent arrival there of an anti-terrorist squad prompted the latest attack. The big camp, ringed with rolls of barbed wire, also houses several thousand families of military policemen.

Area Will Get Cold Weather

Turning away from today's mild temperatures and showers, the Ohio forecaster said much colder weather is due Tuesday, along with snow flurries.

Rain, wind and comparatively high temperatures will mark today, with a high ranging up to 46-52 degrees, the weatherman said. But the rain will end tonight and it will turn colder, with snow flurries expected, he added. The overnight low will be 24-28.

The forecast for Tuesday calls for partly cloudy, a few snow flurries and much colder.

The Stratton super - dam recorded a high of 52 at 4 p. m. Sunday. The overnight low was 42, recorded at 4 a. m. In downtown East Liverpool, the low was 39 early this morning.

Despite the rain, the Ohio River stage is holding steady, even receding a little, after a brief rise Saturday, the dam reported. The reading on the upper gauge this morning was 12 feet and on the lower gauge it was 17.5.

Despite the high temperatures yesterday afternoon, most suburban areas still showed the remains of the heavy accumulation of ice that resulted from the freezing rain Friday night and early Saturday.

An underpass on Route 2 in Weirton was closed Saturday and part of Sunday after water backed up from a nearby creek.

One-way traffic was in force for awhile Saturday afternoon on the Midland Heights Hill Rd., Route 168, when a rock slide covered the up-bound lane, Midland police reported.

Police received a compalint of the slide at 1 p. m. The borough street crew and Louis Granito, assistant foreman, used the borough's highlift at the scene. Later a crew from the Beaver County Division of the Pennsylvania State Highway Department finished the clearing away, police said.

Ferro Corp. To Build New West Coast Plant

Ferro Corp. of Cleveland, which operates the Louthan Manufacturing Co. in Klondyke, announced today it will erect a new refractories plant costing $165,000 in Huntington Beach, Calif.

Ferro's third operation in the Los Angeles area, it will be built adjacent to the Ferro fiberglass plant. Construction of the 10,000-square-foot structure will begin April 1, plant officials said.

The new unit will manufacture specialized refractory materials for West Coast industry, the company said.

Leftover pie dough? Make small turnovers of the rolled out pastry with a filling of applesauce flavored with grated orange rind. Use a couple of teaspoons of the applesauce for a 4-inch pastry square, then fold over, press edges together and bake.

United Nations. The 18 nations include five Western allies, five from the Communist bloc, and eight avowedly neutral countries.

Representatives of the five Western nations — the United States, Britain, Canada, France and Italy—have been meeting here for two weeks to make plans for the Geneva talks.

The five Western allies have been discussing several things which might be offered at Geneva. If the communist negotiators agree to some or all, it might pave the way to a meeting of the heads of government some time in May to tackle the thornier problems.

Among the proposals for priority consideration under discussion are these:

1. An agreement under which the nuclear powers—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—would agree not to transfer nuclear weapons or the capacity to manufacture them to any other country.

2. An agreement on military uses of outer space.

3. Possible designation of a limited area for international inspection of military forces which might serve as a pilot project for future worldwide inspection.

4. Negotiation of a non-aggression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact nations.

palace on the outskirts of The Hague. Sunday night the attorney general dined with top government officials and West New Guinea was the chief topic of after dinner discussion.

Mrs. Kennedy made a sightseeing tour of The Hague, Delft and Amsterdam.

Before leaving West Germany, the Kennedys drove the 15 miles from Bonn to Cologne to attend Mass at the famous Cologne Cathedral.

In a parting shot at the East German Communist regime, he said in a speech taped for broadcast to East Germany that on his world tour he had gained the impression that East German party chief Walter Ulbricht has "no prestige and no position in any place in the world in which I have been."

Welcome Mat Out For Salespeople

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—The welcome mat is out for door-to-door sales people more than ever, according to a survey made at Indiana University.

Albert Haring, professor of marketing, conducted a study in cooperation with the National Association of Direct Selling Companies. More than 25,000 salespeople were questioned.

They said they believe housewives welcome them for four reasons — convenience, so they can take their time making up their minds, so they can try articles out under actual conditions and so they can consult other members of the family.

The study said in-the-home sales account for approximately 2 per cent of the merchandise bought by the American consumer.

2 Elderly Motorists Have One-Way Crash

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — An 83-year-old motorist was traveling in the left lane of a one-way street when he decided to turn right. A 71-year-old driver was in the right lane and turned left.

Patrolman Robert Scott, who investigated the head - on crash, said both men were convinced a driver could turn any way he desired on a one-way throughfare.

City Motorist Held To Court

An East Liverpool motorist was held for Beaver County court on one charge and fined $25 and costs on another Saturday afternoon before Midland Justice of the Peace Paul McGeehan.

James Humphrey, 1173½ Erie St., pleaded not guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor and was held for Beaver County court action under a $1,000 property bond. The charge was filed by Ohioville Police Chief Bernard Zlatovich.

In a second hearing, Humphrey pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to stop at the scene of an accident and was fined $25 and costs. The charge was filed by Midland Patrolman Anthony Verzilli.

According to police, Humphrey hit the parked car of John J. Golovich, 28 Midland Ave., Friday about 10:05 p. m. and was apprehended on Route 68 in Ohioville Borough by Verzilli, who was off duty, and Francis Wolfe, a Beaver County deputy sheriff, who both gave chase.

Lions Secretary Given Tribute At 'Charter' Event

Edward Custer, secretary of the Lions Club for the last two years, was honored as "Lion of the Year" at the club's annual Charter Night dinner Saturday night at the Travelers Hotel.

Nearly 80 attended the affair, at which new members were installed and awards made to members for enrolling others.

James Boyd, William Kozel Jr. and Charles Haugh were formally installed as members by Dr. John A. Fraser, a charter member.

Membership awards went to Earl Lones, Laurin Stacey and Howard Tice, who also received a key member award. The presentation was made by George McCullough, district deputy governor.

Earliss D. Gleaton, pastor of the First Christian Church of Chester, was the principal speaker. Richard Judge served as toastmaster.

Ben Hipsley and Ronald and Paul Jarvis, twin brothers, presented the musical entertainment. Charles Herman, president, presided. Richard Walker was general chairman.

Men Remain Hospitalized In 2 Mishaps

A New Castle trucker and a State Highway Department employe remain in City Hospital with injuries suffered in weekend mishaps.

Edward Brown, 28, of New Castle R. D. 5 is in "good" condition with back injuries suffered when his tractor - trailer was rammed by a westbound freight train early Saturday at the Walnut St. crossing.

Paul E. Watson, 42, of Rogers R. D. 1, who was struck by a car operated by John E. Rardon, 19, of Lisbon St., while clearing a rock slide on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. Friday night, is in "fair" condition.

Watson suffered compound fractures of both legs, lacerations of the left cheek, lower lip and chin.

The New Castle trucker is scheduled for a hearing in Municipal Court on a reckless driving charge when he is released from the hospital.

Patrolman S. E. Hayes said Brown admitted failing to stop before crossing the tracks. He said he did not see or hear the train.

The officer said the train struck the flatbed trailer, hurling the cab into a house at 207 Walnut St. occupied by Conward Adkins and owned by Mrs. Iris Lisle.

The trailer was shoved down the tracks by the engine, tearing up approximately 100 feet of spur track. Adkins' auto parked on the River Rd. also was damaged, the officer said.

Rardon failed to appear for a hearing this morning on two charges filed by the State Highway Patrol as the aftermath of the accident in which the highway worker was hurt.

Rardon was cited for driving without an operator's permit and driving at a speed too great for road conditions. The patrol alleged the highway was wet, it was raining, visibility was poor and the state truck was displaying flashing red lights.

According to the patrol, Watson was standing in front of his truck parked in the westbound lane throwing some small rocks from the roadway.

When additional rocks started to fall, he jumped back and was struck by Rardon's car as he started to pass the truck, the patrol said.

route so far. I wouldn't bring my kids down on a day like this."

Weather had been the cause of some of the several postponements of the first U.S. manned orbital flight which Glenn finally carried out last Tuesday.

A big jet taxied slowly across the field to the hangar where a red carpet had been unrolled.

When the plane stopped, the ramp was rolled up and the President stepped out, followed closely by Glenn. A band struck up "Ruffles and Flourishes" and "Hail to the Chief." The President and Glenn both stood at attention at the foot of the ramp while the band played the national anthem.

The President and the astronaut stepped out in the rain shoulder to shoulder to march through an honor guard of Marines up to a small reviewing stand facing detachments from each of the armed services.

Glenn's alternates in the space venture also had been flown here from Florida.

Glenn walked out alone to shake hands with the commander of the Marine color guard, then returned to the President and his family.

They quickly climbed into the presidential bubble top limousine and drove away without further ceremonies. The automobile had the bubble up to shield against the rain.

The trumpets pealed again as Kennedy, Glenn and the others stepped into waiting limousines, wheeled through the hangar in front of the troops and sped off toward Washington.

Glenn and his wife, Annie, occupied the back seat of the leading limousine, which had the American flag and the President's flag fluttering from the front fenders.

In the jump seats were the Glenns' daughter Lyn, 14, and son David, 16.

In the front seat was Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, military aide to the President.

The ceremony in the hangar was so brief that perhaps 2,000 spectators—mostly the wives of Air Force personnel and their neighbors from nearby Maryland towns—barely got a glimpse of Glenn over the heads of the honor guard before the national anthem ended, the President and the astronaut climbed into their car, and the motorcade sped away.

New Concord Gets Set For 'John Glenn' Day

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—Residents of this little Muskingum County community began preparations today for what will probably be the biggest day in New Concord's history — "John Glenn Day" this Saturday.

Officials here received definite word Sunday from the National Aeronautics and Space Agency that astronaut John M. Glenn Jr. will be available for about five hours Saturday for the celebration at his hometown.

Although no definite time has been set, it is believed Glenn will arrive about 11:30 a.m. Saturday and Mayor James K. Taylor explained "NASA said he has to be back in his parents' home by 4:30 p.m."

The time in between, however, will be jammed with events.

Taylor said a noon luncheon is planned for Glenn and about 65 state and local officials, including Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Following the lunch, a parade is planned. About 3 p.m. the activities will move to the gymnasium at Muskingum College where special tributes will be paid New Concord's favorite son.

A press conference with Glenn will wind up the activities.

Men Remain Hospitalized In 2 Mishaps

A New Castle trucker and a State Highway Department employe remain in City Hospital with injuries suffered in weekend mishaps.

Edward Brown, 28, of New Castle R. D. 5 is in "good" condition with back injuries suffered when his tractor - trailer was rammed by a westbound freight train early Saturday at the Walnut St. crossing.

Paul E. Watson, 42, of Rogers R. D. 1, who was struck by a car operated by John E. Rardon, 19, of Lisbon St., while clearing a rock slide on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. Friday night, is in "fair" condition.

Watson suffered compound fractures of both legs, lacerations of the left cheek, lower lip and chin.

The New Castle trucker is scheduled for a hearing in Municipal Court on a reckless driving charge when he is released from the hospital.

Patrolman S. E. Hayes said Brown admitted failing to stop before crossing the tracks. He said he did not see or hear the train.

The officer said the train struck the flatbed trailer, hurling the cab into a house at 207 Walnut St. occupied by Conward Adkins and owned by Mrs. Iris Lisle.

The trailer was shoved down the tracks by the engine, tearing up approximately 100 feet of spur track. Adkins' auto parked on the River Rd. also was damaged, the officer said.

Rardon failed to appear for a hearing this morning on two charges filed by the State Highway Patrol as the aftermath of the accident in which the highway worker was hurt.

Rardon was cited for driving without an operator's permit and driving at a speed too great for road conditions. The patrol alleged the highway was wet, it was raining, visibility was poor and the state truck was displaying flashing red lights.

According to the patrol, Watson was standing in front of his truck parked in the westbound lane throwing some small rocks from the roadway.

When additional rocks started to fall, he jumped back and was struck by Rardon's car as he started to pass the truck, the patrol said.

City Fireman Will Quit Post

City Fireman Joseph R. Gebauer said today he will resign, effective next month, to become a fireman in Alexandria, Va.

Gebauer, who has been a member of the department since July 1, 1958, said he will submit copies of resignation to Chief Charles Bryan and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen.

He is completing work today at Central Station and expects to begin his 15-day vacation Sunday, with the resignation effective March 19.

Gebauer was appointed in former Mayor Fred P. Lawrence's administration when seven were named to the department at one time — two filling vacancies and the other five taking new jobs.

Since Gebauer was named to fill an existing vacancy, he was not affected by a later cutback in manpower when the municipal income tax was repealed.

A graduate of East Liverpool High School, he served three years in the Army and had been employed at Crucible before joining the department. Married, he resides with his wife at 1520 Smithfield St.

Figuring Your Income Tax

You Should Know Rules Before Filing A Return

For those who would like some help in preparing their income tax returns, Associated Press news analyst James Marlow has written a lucid, readable five-part series explaining the main features on the '61 returns. The first article follows.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

Highlights on filing an income tax return for 1961.

Deadline — midnight, Monday, April 16, 1962.

Income to report — Only the taxable kind. Some, like Social Security payments, is nontaxable and should not be reported.

Refunds — If your 1961 income tax was too low for the amount of tax withheld from it, you can get a refund but only by filing a return.

You must file a return, whether or not you owe tax, if:

1.—You were under 65 and your 1961 income was $600 or more. This includes children. Their parents are responsible for their filing.

2.—You were 65 on Jan. 1, 1962 or blind by Dec. 31, 1961, and had $1,200 income or more.

A self-employed person of any age with net taxable income of $400 or more must file a return and pay a self - employment tax, really a Social Security tax, of 4½ per cent on income up to $4,800.

THUS A man over 65, even though drawing non-taxable Social Security payments, would have to file a return and pay this tax if he had net taxable income of $400 or more from self-employment.

W-2 withholding statements — Enclose with your return all these receipts for tax withheld from your pay during 1961.

Help — You'll get a lot by reading the 14-page instruction sheet sent every taxpayer by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). It has tax rates and tables.

You'll get even more information in the 144 - page booklet, "Your Federal Income Tax," which the IRS will sell you for 40 cents.

Tax forms — In making their returns individuals will use either form 1040 or 1940A. The latter is a punch card.

Last year there was a third form, 1040W. IRS, trying to simplify things, scrapped that one and streamlined 1040. Anyone can use 1040.

You can use 1040A only if your income was under $10,000 and was entirely in wages from which tax was withheld (plus not more than $200 in dividends, interest or wages from which tax was not withheld) and if, instead of itemizing your deductions, you're willing to accept the standard deductions of about 10 per cent already allowed for in the table used to figure your tax.

IF YOU don't meet these conditions, you must use 1040.

Deductions — You may save by checking the expenses you can deduct from your income before what's left is taxable. Example of deductible expenses: state income taxes, interest on the house mortgage, state gasoline taxes.

Everyone gets a standard deduction of about 10 per cent up to $1,000 for personal expenses. If yours don't exceed that, you don't have to claim or itemize them. They're allowed for in the table used to figure your tax.

If they do exceed 10 per cent of your taxable income, you can claim them in full but only by itemizing them and figuring your own tax.

Exemptions — Each one you can claim means $600 knocked off your income before what's left is taxable. Everyone filing a return gets a $600 exemption for himself and $600 for each dependent.

A wife is not a dependent. If your wife had no income, you can file your own return, claiming a $600 exemption for yourself, $600 for her.

The tax is split for husbands and wives filing a joint return. So most couples file jointly, wether or not the wife had income.

If your wife had income, no matter how small, you can't claim any exemption for her unless she files jointly with you. Then each of you claims a $600 exemption, total $1,200, on the same joint return.

If your wife had income but for some reason files her own return, she claims her own $600 exemption on her return, you claim your $600 exemption on your return.

EXAMPLES OF taxable income, which must be reported:

Wages; salaries; profits from a business, profession or farm; income from estates and trustes; fees; tips, commissions; bonuses; rents, interest on savings bonds; stock dividends; dividends from savings and loan associations; prizes for which you did something to win; profits from the sale and exchange of property; generally strike benefits paid by unions; gambling winnings; severance pay.

Examples of non - taxable income, which doesn't have to be reported:

Gifts in money or anything of value for which you performed no service; state or federal social security benefits; unemployment compensation paid by a state, although supplemental employment benefits from a company - financed supplemental employment fund are taxable; life insurance proceeds paid because of the death of the insured, unless the policy was transferred to you for a valuable consideration; veterans benefits from the Veterans Administration to veterans and their families; interest on state and municipal bonds; subsistence and rental allowances to members of the armed forces; public assistance payments to the blind.

Next: Choosing the right form.

Wet Weather Plagues U.S.

By The Associated Press

Another snow and sleet storm hit sections of the Midwest today, dumping another blanket of white across the snow-covered midlands.

Wet weather also was in prospect for most of the eastern half of the nation, with snow and rain in the Northeast and rain in other areas outside the Midwest snow belt.

Arctic air from Canada spread into Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota. In Montana, temperatures fell to 26 below zero in Butte, -20 in Drummond, -19 in Lewiston and -17 in Cut Bank.

The snow belt extended from Lake Michigan and Lake Superior into Kansas, Nebraska and southern South Dakota. Heavy snow fell in Iowa, with six inches reported in a six-hour period in Des Moines, making a total of 15 inches on the ground. In Waterloo, Iowa, the seven-inch fall increased the total on the ground to 17 inches.

Four to eight inches of snow was indicated in northwest Wisconsin and two to four inches in the northern half of Illinois.

Snow also spread across areas in the central Rockies, Utah, Nevada and northern Arizona.

Showers and thundershowers broke out southeast of the Midwest snow line, extending across the lower Ohio Valley into the Carolinas and Georgia. Heavy rain pelted most of western Kentucky.

Freezing rain and sleet slicked highways in northwest and extreme northern Illinois and the narrow icy belt stretched from the Oklahoma Panhandle to lower Michigan. Heavy snow or glaze warnings were posted for much of Kansas, Nebraska, northwest Missouri, Iowa and sections of Illinois and Wisconsin.

In the Far West, showers dampened scattered sections of California. Two inches of snow fell in the Mount Hamilton area southeast of San Francisco.

LaCroft Driver Hurt When Car Rams Pole

George Hanlon, 38, of LaCroft was hospitalized briefly over the weekend with injuries suffered in an auto accident.

Hanlon was admitted to City Hospital Saturday afternoon at 2:30 with a large laceration of the right cheek, lacerations of the upper eyelid and abrasions of the ear. He was released Sunday.

Hanlon told hospital authorities his car struck a utility pole on Pleasant Heights and that no other car was involved. Area police had no report of the mishap.

Wet Weather Plagues U.S.

By The Associated Press

Another snow and sleet storm hit sections of the Midwest today, dumping another blanket of white across the snow-covered midlands.

Wet weather also was in prospect for most of the eastern half of the nation, with snow and rain in the Northeast and rain in other areas outside the Midwest snow belt.

Arctic air from Canada spread into Montana, Wyoming and North Dakota. In Montana, temperatures fell to 26 below zero in Butte, -20 in Drummond, -19 in Lewiston and -17 in Cut Bank.

The snow belt extended from Lake Michigan and Lake Superior into Kansas, Nebraska and southern South Dakota. Heavy snow fell in Iowa, with six inches reported in a six-hour period in Des Moines, making a total of 15 inches on the ground. In Waterloo, Iowa, the seven-inch fall increased the total on the ground to 17 inches.

Four to eight inches of snow was indicated in northwest Wisconsin and two to four inches in the northern half of Illinois.

Snow also spread across areas in the central Rockies, Utah, Nevada and northern Arizona.

Showers and thundershowers broke out southeast of the Midwest snow line, extending across the lower Ohio Valley into the Carolinas and Georgia. Heavy rain pelted most of western Kentucky.

Freezing rain and sleet slicked highways in northwest and extreme northern Illinois and the narrow icy belt stretched from the Oklahoma Panhandle to lower Michigan. Heavy snow or glaze warnings were posted for much of Kansas, Nebraska, northwest Missouri, Iowa and sections of Illinois and Wisconsin.

In the Far West, showers dampened scattered sections of California. Two inches of snow fell in the Mount Hamilton area southeast of San Francisco.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm so burned up I can hardly see to write this letter. I need your opinion — fast.

We've had a lot of snow around here this winter and it's been rough on all of us. This morning, after my husband left for work, the doorbell rang. It was the man next door. He wanted to know if I would mind pushing his car out of their driveway. He said all he needed was "a little shove."

I told him my husband had already left for work and taken our car. He replied: "You don't need a car. All I want is a little push. You can do it by hand."

I was so taken by surprise I didn't think things through. I put on my coat and galoshes and pushed his car out of the driveway. He waved his thanks and I went into the house. Then my back began to ache and I really got mad.

My husband wouldn't dream of asking a woman to push his car. What do you think of a man who would make such a request? — WET HEN.

-:-

Dear Hen: Never mind about HIM. He's a clod. But agreeing to do it qualifies you to lead off the brainless class.

Young Love

Dear Ann: I'm 15 years old and had my first date last night. The fellow is a nice guy who also is 15. This is what happened and I'd like to know what to do if it happens again.

Benny picked me up at 7 p.m. and we took a bus to the movie house. When we got to the box office he very politely said, "You may buy your ticket first." I'm lucky I had money with me because I sure didn't expect to buy my own ticket. I tried not to look surprised.

After the movie he offered to treat me to a soda and I accepted. He paid for both my soda and his. I'm sure he will ask me out again. Shall I accept? — GLORIA.

-:-

Dear Gloria: If you like the boy, accept. But do him a favor and tell him that when a young man invites a lady to the movies he is supposed to buy her ticket unless it was agreed in advance that the date was to be a Dutch treat.

Unleashed Fury

Dear Ann: My husband's sister insists on bring their untrained dog whenever she comes to spend the weekend with us, which is at least once a month.

She knows exactly how I feel about this hound because I've told her repeatedly that she is welcome any time but I don't want that dog in my house. Every time she comes over she says, "I tried to find someone who would take Ginger but it didn't work out. I hope you won't mind."

I have a new baby. That dirty dog goes into the nursery and messes on the floor. It makes me sick. My sister-in-law lets the dog sleep on her pillow and now that mattress has a dog smell I'll never get rid of.

Please, Ann, help me solve this problem. It has almost ruined my relationship with my husband's whole family, because they all like the dog.—DOG-GONED.

Dear D.G.: Stop asking and TELL her she can't bring the dog into your home again. If she appears at the door with Ginger, hand her the telephone number of the nearest kennel or a vet who will house the dog. When your sister-in-law sees that you mean business your problem will be solved.

Confidentially

TO UGLY AMERICAN: Tell him that anyone who brags about his ancestors admits his relatives are better dead than alive. This should settle his hash.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Von Braun Welcomes Man To 'Misfire Club'

But when Ralph Uribe of the New Orleans States-Item started to make the picture, the flash bulb failed to explode.

Von Braun smiled and told Uribe: "You'd be a good prospect for Huntsville. We push buttons there, too, and nothing happens."

Self-Serve Burglars

ATLANTA (AP) — Burglars broke into an auto service company over the weekend. They stole a television set, an adding machine and numerous other items—plus a company truck to haul away the loot.

Law Degree Won By Police Officer With 11 Children

BALDWIN, N. Y. (AP)—Nassau County patrolman Walter R. Henesy is a devoted father to a family that soon will number a dozen children. But he hasn't had much time to enjoy the role.

For the past six years, he has been grinding away at his studies —going to bed late, arising early for his regular job and doing odd jobs on the weekend to pay for his education.

Now that's all in the past. He recently passed his bar examination and expects to be admitted to the bar in June.

The Brooklyn-born patrolman, now 42, grew up in Oceanside, N. Y. He had to leave high school to take a job to help support his family, which had 10 children.

After Army service in the China-Burma-India theater, he married his childhood sweetheart, Ileen Maloney, and set about having the large family.

His bid to realize the dream of an education came after he joined the police force in 1949. First, he got his high school equivalency diploma, then attended Hofstra College by meshing it into his work schedule. Next he attended St. John's University Law School in New York City, again on a staggered schedule.

"It meant going into a room with the books and shutting yourself off from the world," said Henesy, who earns $7,400-a-year as a patrolman. He has no immediate plans for leaving the police force.

Murder Charges Due Against 4 In Robbery

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Newark police were planning to file first-degree murder charges against four men today in the death of Paul Cullison, 60, Newark salesman.

Arrested in the investigation Sunday were Andrew Lester Sherman, 21; Joy Robert Redman, 20; Ronald Lee Waddell, 17, and David Lee Rowland, 17, all of Newark.

Detective Chief Charles Spurgeon said Rowland struck Cullison, who fell and hit his head on the icy pavement early Saturday. One of the men then took $3.20 from Cullison, the detective said. He listed the cause of death as an apparent cerebral hemorrhage.

Ohio Woman Injured Fatally By Helicopter

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —The body of Mrs. Grace W. Leonard of Akron, Ohio, who died Saturday of injuries suffered in a helicopter accident, was sent home today for burial.

Mrs. Leonard, wife of Dr. Donald E. Leonard, was hit by a rotor of the helicopter last weekend as she left the craft after a sightseeing tour.

Ohio Center Due Some $47 Million In Space Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Space Committee, which opens hearings Tuesday with astronaut John Glenn as a witness, will consider budget recommendations including some $47 million for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Plum Brook facility in Sandusky, Ohio.

Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Ohio, a member of the House committee, said the budget figures for the Sandusky facility are tentative.

The session at which Glenn and fellow astronauts Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom will appear opens a hearing schedule of several weeks during which the space agency's 1963 budget requests will be considered.

Mosher is a member of a subcommittee that will deal with NASA proposals on lunar and planetary exploration, sounding rockets and scientific satellites, and Scout, Delta and Centaur launch vehicles.

Mosher said much of the research and development underway at Plum Brook, a branch of NASA's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, deals with those programs.

Berea Boy Saved From Icy Creek

CLEVELAND (AP)—An insurance company claims manager was credited with saving a 5-year-old boy who had fallen through thin ice over a deep creek in suburban Berea.

"It happened so fast," said Calvin H. Morton, 35. "I guess I just jumped in."

The youngster, Barry Stevens, was sledding Sunday with his father, Ted Stevens, a school teacher, and a brother and a sister. He went down the slide alone and wandered off toward the creek. He walked 10 feet onto the ice, then it broke.

Older children cried out. Morton, at the top of the sled run with his wife and two children, heard them. He raced down the embankment, leaped into the 5½-foot-deep chilly water and pulled Barry out.

The elder Stevens arrived to aid in the rescue. He then took his son home to a hot bath and a nap.

Skidding Car Hits Mailbox; Auto Kills Doe

A mailbox and Review delivery container were damaged by an East Liverpool man's car that skidded on ice and went off the edge of the highway in one of four traffic accidents investigated by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol over the weekend.

No one was injured in the crashes Saturday and Sunday, officers reported, but a deer that ran into the path of a New Brighton man's car was killed.

The mailbox and newspaper container were damaged when hit by the car of Roy P. Mason, 59, of R. D. 2 Saturday night at 7:30 on Route 30, eight-tenths of a mile north of the city.

The patrol said Mason lost control of his north-bound car when it struck an icy patch of pavement. The car went off the right pavement edge and struck the newspaper container and a mailbox owned by Kenneth and Grace Cornell. Mason escaped unhurt.

A doe being chased by a dog ran into the path of the east-bound car of Charles Byers, 20, of New Brighton Sunday at 4:55 p. m. on Route 14, a mile and seven-tenths east of Route 7.

Officers said the impact caused considerable damage to the car. Officers notified a game warden, who in turn alerted the sheriff's office.

A car operated by Gaylord A. Wright, 26, of Lisbon R. D. 5 and a semi-truck driven by Richard Charles Rigby, 38, of Norwalk sideswiped on Route 30 Saturday night at 6:30.

The patrol said there was no evidence to indicate the point of impact and each driver claimed he had been in his proper lane. There was considerable damage to Wright's 1956 model car, officers said. The truck was not damaged.

Ethel L. Dagenhard, 48, of Magnolia crashed into a ditch along Route 30 two-tenths of a mile west of Lisbon Sunday at 5:30 p. m. when she swerved to avoid striking a vehicle that had backed onto the highway, officers said.

She swerved and lost control, going into a ditch on the south side of the road. Officers were unable to learn the identity of the vehicle that backed into her path.

ant Heights, $103.75; Klondyke, $81.78; Gardendale, $20.53; Westfield, $21.30; Dixonville, $23.77 and Calcutta, $191.20.

The co-chairmen were Mrs. William B. Laughlin of Homestead Dr. and Mrs. Robert Bernstorf of Dairy Ln. Proceeds are used for research, community service and education about heart diseases.

Mrs. Mary Alice Pugh, chairman of Wellsville's Heart Fund campaign, said approximately $550 was raised in the solicitation yesterday afternoon.

The volunteer workers canvassed the entire city, Russell Heights and Hillcrest, she said.

The headquarters for counting the money was the Carnegie Library. Mrs. Pugh said only three or four reports are still to come in.

This raises the city total to $750. More money is expected from letters sent out by Mrs. Pugh, who also said the coin cannisters have not been collected. The quota is $1,400.

Meanwhile, about $207.17 was received in a solicitation of Chester and Lawrenceville homes, Mrs. Edna Caruso, general chairman, said.

She is oracle of the Royal Neighbors of America Lodge which sponsored the drive. Lodge members were assisted by Chester senior and junior high school girls and members of the school's Key Club.

The Cherokee 4-H Club, with Mrs. Mary Schladen as leader, conducted the solicitation in the Lawrenceville area.

Further contributions to the drive are expected from letters sent to organizations and businesses, Mrs. Caruso said.

At Lisbon, the Heart Sunday drive netted $600, according to George Vokovich and Tom Kastner, co-chairmen.

Last year, the house - to - house canvass yielded $700 and $300 more was turned in to two local banks, making a total of over $1,000, the chairmen said.

Vokovich said he hopes persons who were not at home Sunday will turn over their contributions to the banks.

A total of $142.21 was collected in the Newell area by 25 workers, Mrs. Mae Hupp, community chairman, reported.

Envelopes left at homes where families were absent are to be mailed to Mrs. Hupp, 601 Harrison St.

Funds from Newell merchants and civic organizations are expected to be received later, she reported.

Two deputies from the office of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny patroled the area while canvassing was underway by the Y-Teens of Wells High School, the auxiliary and Junior Auxiliary of American Legion Post 114 and the Panhandle Business & Professional Women's Club and Newell Women's Club.

Bombs Found At Homes Of Pair In Plot

Enough explosives to wreck seven houses were found Saturday by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents at the Steubenville homes of two of three youths charged with trying to extort $4,000 from a Youngstown man by threatening to bomb his coffee house.

Cartons of plastic bombs, detonating cord and ammunition were uncovered at the homes of Charles Edward Oxley, 17, and John A. Reducha, 20, according to Edward Hargett, special agent in charge of the Cleveland office of the FBI.

The two, along with John Hamilton Brewer, 17, have been bound over to the U.S. District Court at Cleveland for extortion.

They were caught in a trap Thursday night at Toronto where they went to pick up the $4,000 they had demanded from Costos (Gus) Leamis, 62, of Youngstown, a gambling stamp holder.

Agents found 155 plastic bombs in cartons and 1,000 rolls of detonating cord in a dilapidated barn at the Oxley home, and uncovered blasting caps, primer cord and a rifle in the home. At the Reducha home, two baseball-shaped bombs, a fuse and detonating cord were located.

A truck was used to haul the explosives, apparently stolen from mines in the district, to a government arsenal.

The three are under $20,000 bond each.

Bombs Found At Homes Of Pair In Plot

Enough explosives to wreck seven houses were found Saturday by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents at the Steubenville homes of two of three youths charged with trying to extort $4,000 from a Youngstown man by threatening to bomb his coffee house.

Cartons of plastic bombs, detonating cord and ammunition were uncovered at the homes of Charles Edward Oxley, 17, and John A. Reducha, 20, according to Edward Hargett, special agent in charge of the Cleveland office of the FBI.

The two, along with John Hamilton Brewer, 17, have been bound over to the U.S. District Court at Cleveland for extortion.

They were caught in a trap Thursday night at Toronto where they went to pick up the $4,000 they had demanded from Costos (Gus) Leamis, 62, of Youngstown, a gambling stamp holder.

Agents found 155 plastic bombs in cartons and 1,000 rolls of detonating cord in a dilapidated barn at the Oxley home, and uncovered blasting caps, primer cord and a rifle in the home. At the Reducha home, two baseball-shaped bombs, a fuse and detonating cord were located.

A truck was used to haul the explosives, apparently stolen from mines in the district, to a government arsenal.

The three are under $20,000 bond each.

Trust Fund And Care Fail To Save Tree

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Money in the bank and special care failed to save a 150-year-old elm tree.

The tree became the victim of Dutch elm disease despite the fact the late Jennie M. Arms Sheldon had set up a trust fund for its preservation.

The tree — on the campus of Deerfield Academy — was even equipped with a lightning rod.

The small trust for the 110-foot-tall tree had been administered by the school since 1938.

Fidel Castro Returns After 12-Day Absence

HAVANA (AP)—Looking happy and healthy, Fidel Castro emerged from 12 days of silence and seclusion Sunday for a baseball and television appearance.

The Cuban prime minister lined out two hits—one with two strikes against him—after making an unannounced appearance at a doubleheader in "Latino Americano" stadium.

The crowd of 32,000 cheered and the nation's television audience watched as Castro accepted the challenge of two pitchers to strike him out.

Castro's disappearance from the public eye set a variety of rumors to flying. One was that he had gone to Moscow, another that he had taken asylum in the Mexican Embassy.

Retarded Enjoy Music Therapy, Teacher Reveals

CLEVELAND (AP)—A concert cellist and teacher played music Sunday that brought smiles to the faces of 12 retarded children and made them tap their feet and clap their hands.

She is founder of the Society for Music Therapy and Remedial Music in London, and has given 25 similar performances throughout the country in the past two months.

Words do not always make a handicapped child aware, she said before she began, but music can be understood without a high intellectual process.

When Dr. Alvin played her cello, she made it a simple process—one step at a time, she said, to hold the children's attention and build up their desire to listen.

There were a few giggles when she first played a pair of high notes and then two deep tones. As she continued, however, the music moved the children. Faces broke into smiles, feet tapped and hands clapped.

Music, said Dr. Alvin, provides an emotional outlet, a mental stimulus and a social activity, all of which help the retarded children. Some 100 persons watched the program at the Cleveland Music School settlement.

Given New Life

Morale Of Elderly Aided By Foster Home System

NEW YORK (AP)—John Olsen, alone at 79, has found a fountain of youth through a relatively new twist on an idea that has given meaning to the lives of countless orphaned children.

He lives in a foster home for the elderly.

"This has been the life for me," Olsen said of the time he has spent in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maxfield and their children in the Bronx.

"I am 79 and don't feel any different than when I was 20," he said. "They treat me like I was one of the family. The children call me Uncle John."

His was a situation typical of those of many of the nation's elderly. He had just been released from a hospital after suffering a broken hip. He had no immediate relatives. His hotel rent was $90 a month and his social security check only $78 a month.

Olsen was sent to his foster home through the Catholic Charities Family Service Department.

Olsen told the New York Herald Tribune that it's the attitude of the Maxfield family that makes his foster home a happiness house.

"In some places they could keep you in the ice chest upstairs and only let you come down to eat. Now you take the two boys here—David (18) and Tommy (14)—they bought a big birthday cake for me when I was 79. The boys did this and gave me a party."

"All kidding aside," he added, "I'm in a pretty good spot."

The Maxfields receive $150 a month, with Olsen contributing his Social Security and the City Welfare Department making up the difference. Olsen also receives about $10 a month spending money from the city.

Marine Recruits May Ask Duty In Aviation Branch

Young men from the East Liverpool area are being offered an opportunity to enlist in the Marine Corps under the "guarantee aviation duty" program, Sgt. Robert J. Barnes, recruiter at City Hall, said today.

Under this program a man is tested, and if qualified, is guaranteed before enlistment that he will be transferred to aviation duty upon completion of recruit training, the recruiter said.

Following recruit training, the new Marines will be transferred to the aviation fundamentals school at Memphis, Tenn. Upon completion of this school, they will enter one or more specialized training schools either at Memphis, or Jacksonville, Fla.

Sgt. Barnes also said that high school seniors may combine this program with the Marine Corps 120-day delay program and reserve a place for after graduation.

More information may be obtained by contacting Sgt. Barnes at City Hall each Tuesday or Friday between 10:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., or by calling FU. 6-6181 for an appointment.

Fidel Castro Returns After 12-Day Absence

HAVANA (AP)—Looking happy and healthy, Fidel Castro emerged from 12 days of silence and seclusion Sunday for a baseball and television appearance.

The Cuban prime minister lined out two hits—one with two strikes against him—after making an unannounced appearance at a doubleheader in "Latino Americano" stadium.

The crowd of 32,000 cheered and the nation's television audience watched as Castro accepted the challenge of two pitchers to strike him out.

Castro's disappearance from the public eye set a variety of rumors to flying. One was that he had gone to Moscow, another that he had taken asylum in the Mexican Embassy.

Retarded Enjoy Music Therapy, Teacher Reveals

CLEVELAND (AP)—A concert cellist and teacher played music Sunday that brought smiles to the faces of 12 retarded children and made them tap their feet and clap their hands.

She is founder of the Society for Music Therapy and Remedial Music in London, and has given 25 similar performances throughout the country in the past two months.

Words do not always make a handicapped child aware, she said before she began, but music can be understood without a high intellectual process.

When Dr. Alvin played her cello, she made it a simple process—one step at a time, she said, to hold the children's attention and build up their desire to listen.

There were a few giggles when she first played a pair of high notes and then two deep tones. As she continued, however, the music moved the children. Faces broke into smiles, feet tapped and hands clapped.

Music, said Dr. Alvin, provides an emotional outlet, a mental stimulus and a social activity, all of which help the retarded children. Some 100 persons watched the program at the Cleveland Music School settlement.

Given New Life

Morale Of Elderly Aided By Foster Home System

NEW YORK (AP)—John Olsen, alone at 79, has found a fountain of youth through a relatively new twist on an idea that has given meaning to the lives of countless orphaned children.

He lives in a foster home for the elderly.

"This has been the life for me," Olsen said of the time he has spent in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maxfield and their children in the Bronx.

"I am 79 and don't feel any different than when I was 20," he said. "They treat me like I was one of the family. The children call me Uncle John."

His was a situation typical of those of many of the nation's elderly. He had just been released from a hospital after suffering a broken hip. He had no immediate relatives. His hotel rent was $90 a month and his social security check only $78 a month.

Olsen was sent to his foster home through the Catholic Charities Family Service Department.

Olsen told the New York Herald Tribune that it's the attitude of the Maxfield family that makes his foster home a happiness house.

"In some places they could keep you in the ice chest upstairs and only let you come down to eat. Now you take the two boys here—David (18) and Tommy (14)—they bought a big birthday cake for me when I was 79. The boys did this and gave me a party."

"All kidding aside," he added, "I'm in a pretty good spot."

The Maxfields receive $150 a month, with Olsen contributing his Social Security and the City Welfare Department making up the difference. Olsen also receives about $10 a month spending money from the city.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Dieters Can Avoid Thin Face

In some individuals the face thins down rapidly and this is disheartening. What can a dieter do when reducing shows in her face? A dieter in this dilemma, writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"I have slimmed down from 160 to 128 pounds. I am short, 5 feet 1½. At this weight I feel wonderful and it is a joy to move about freely. At my heavy weight I felt tired, logy and unhappy.

"My problem is my face. I have a heart shaped face, with a pointed chin. When I'm stout my face looks a little more filled out. Now since I've reduced my friends say, 'I liked you better fat — reducing shows in your face.'

"I would hate to put those pounds back on. But it is discouraging to look in the mirror.

—:—

"DO YOU THINK my face will ever regain the small amount of fullness it had when I was heavier?"

Take heart! If you are in a good state of nutrition, your face will fill out again. After the new weight level has been maintained for a while your system will adjust to the change and your face will not look depleted.

To help nature, take toning measures. Get out of doors and walk a couple of miles a day there is no better tonic. Exercise to restore the bloom. Get a rocking chair and rock vigorously for two 15-minute periods daily.

Sit well back in the chair, pull up with the middle muscles, push vigorously with the toes. You'll feel the action clear to the chin and jawline. Rocking is wonderful exercise.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Dieters Can Avoid Thin Face

In some individuals the face thins down rapidly and this is disheartening. What can a dieter do when reducing shows in her face? A dieter in this dilemma, writes:

Ida Jean Kain

"I have slimmed down from 160 to 128 pounds. I am short, 5 feet 1½. At this weight I feel wonderful and it is a joy to move about freely. At my heavy weight I felt tired, logy and unhappy.

"My problem is my face. I have a heart shaped face, with a pointed chin. When I'm stout my face looks a little more filled out. Now since I've reduced my friends say, 'I liked you better fat — reducing shows in your face.'

"I would hate to put those pounds back on. But it is discouraging to look in the mirror.

—:—

"DO YOU THINK my face will ever regain the small amount of fullness it had when I was heavier?"

Take heart! If you are in a good state of nutrition, your face will fill out again. After the new weight level has been maintained for a while your system will adjust to the change and your face will not look depleted.

To help nature, take toning measures. Get out of doors and walk a couple of miles a day there is no better tonic. Exercise to restore the bloom. Get a rocking chair and rock vigorously for two 15-minute periods daily.

Sit well back in the chair, pull up with the middle muscles, push vigorously with the toes. You'll feel the action clear to the chin and jawline. Rocking is wonderful exercise.

Paper Will Prove Hard To Remove Once It's Painted

AP Newsfeatures

Question: There are two coats of paint over the wallpaper in our bedroom. We want to remove the paper. We tried a steamer, but could not get the steam to penetrate the paper until we first used rough sandpaper on an electric buffer. We had rented the steamer and it took us six hours to do one side of the wall. Is there any easier way we can get off the wallpaper?

Answer: When wallpaper has been painted — especially with more than one coat — it is always a nuisance to remove the paper. There simply is no easy way of doing it. The paint creates a seal and, until you pierce the seal, there is just no way to attack the adhesive that holds the paper to the wall.

While a steamer often is recommended, some persons maintain that it is better to soak the paper again and again with a cloth sopping with warm water or one of the commercial wallpaper removers.

When this has been done, the scraping, with a putty knife or similar tool, should not be delayed too long, otherwise the paper will dry and stiffen up again.

But it can't be done instantly, either, as some time must be allowed for the water to soak in. Generally, from three to five minutes is about right, but individual cases vary.

This is something you'll have to judge yourself as you go along. Since you are going to soak the paper and not just wet it, there'll be a lot of water dripping down the wall, so you'd better see that the floor is protected.

Advice On Home Styles

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When it comes to houses, men can be an enigma. Whereas they like tailored furniture as a rule, they often like a fussy gingerbread-style house.

And women who often go in for rococo-style furniture are likely to prefer simple ranch-style or Colonial houses. It is difficult to fathom the reasons as this letter indicates:

"We were just about to build a good solid Colonial house in New England when my husband visited a New Orleans-style house down South. He is determined to have one, and his only description is that it has grille work and balconies. Is it a good house for the North? Is it a woman's house? Why aren't there more of them in the North?"

The New Orleans or Louisiana-style house is a romantic looking house with balcony that runs along the second floor with decorative open-work iron railing, arches and posts.

The walls are usually painted white or pastel, and are of stone or blocks. There are large French windows on the balcony, and in summer the house can be enchanting. There are some drawbacks to this house in the North because of the long winter. Cold climate may increase upkeep and heating costs, one reason why perhaps there aren't more of them in the North. But one who likes the style probably will not let that stand in the way.

MANY women have discovered that they can do jobs formerly considered to be only in the man's balliwick. Plastering is one job that many women eye as a task within their scope, buto ften they are afraid to tackle it, letters indicate.

One woman writes:

"Do you think a woman who has had no experience in home repairs could repair cracked walls with plaster if she followed directions? We have several cracked walls, but no repair man. It looks simple enough, but I don't want to get into a mess."

I think if you just tried to fill up the cracks and sand them, you would not get into trouble.

But the zaniest story I know concerns a woman who attempted to remove some of the cracked plaster. Thec rack grew until finally she had a large hole. She decided to remove the entire wall, 6 by 10 feet, she was in such a frenzy, fearing her husband's wrath. She bought enormous quantities of patching plaster which was an expensive way to do it but the only method she knew.

She did such a superb job her husband invited the incredulous storekeeper who sold her the patching plaster to observe the results.

The most important point, she said, was accurate sanding, necessary to a smooth job. She used an electric sander.

HERE IS some advice from a woman who has three cats and two dogs. She writes:

"We had furnished our home on the theory that dark floorings and dark furniture fabric would hide cat hairs andt he black hairs of our Scotties. But we never quite rid the dark floor tile of the hairs because they were hard to spot. I have now found a white linoleum with a simple thread-like pattern running through it. The floor covering is not only more cheerful in the kitchen but the hairs cannot be noticed by visitors, although they are easy to spot when you mop the floor."

Many people are not as disturbed by finding animal hair on hard-surface floor ast hey are by the almost impossible task of removing hair from rugs and carpet. Vacuum cleaners are inadequate for the job usually, and the trusty old broom or even fireplace sweeper offers better pickup.

"Is it a good idea to build your house high? We'd like to do so as we have bought a large piece of land and would like to build our house behind a lovely wooded section."

It's a good idea providing you've considered the expense of road grading, etc. There is also the winter problem of snow removal. If the road that leads to your house is long and steep, snow removal could be costly.

Paper Will Prove Hard To Remove Once It's Painted

AP Newsfeatures

Question: There are two coats of paint over the wallpaper in our bedroom. We want to remove the paper. We tried a steamer, but could not get the steam to penetrate the paper until we first used rough sandpaper on an electric buffer. We had rented the steamer and it took us six hours to do one side of the wall. Is there any easier way we can get off the wallpaper?

Answer: When wallpaper has been painted — especially with more than one coat — it is always a nuisance to remove the paper. There simply is no easy way of doing it. The paint creates a seal and, until you pierce the seal, there is just no way to attack the adhesive that holds the paper to the wall.

While a steamer often is recommended, some persons maintain that it is better to soak the paper again and again with a cloth sopping with warm water or one of the commercial wallpaper removers.

When this has been done, the scraping, with a putty knife or similar tool, should not be delayed too long, otherwise the paper will dry and stiffen up again.

But it can't be done instantly, either, as some time must be allowed for the water to soak in. Generally, from three to five minutes is about right, but individual cases vary.

This is something you'll have to judge yourself as you go along. Since you are going to soak the paper and not just wet it, there'll be a lot of water dripping down the wall, so you'd better see that the floor is protected.

Advice On Home Styles

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When it comes to houses, men can be an enigma. Whereas they like tailored furniture as a rule, they often like a fussy gingerbread-style house.

And women who often go in for rococo-style furniture are likely to prefer simple ranch-style or Colonial houses. It is difficult to fathom the reasons as this letter indicates:

"We were just about to build a good solid Colonial house in New England when my husband visited a New Orleans-style house down South. He is determined to have one, and his only description is that it has grille work and balconies. Is it a good house for the North? Is it a woman's house? Why aren't there more of them in the North?"

The New Orleans or Louisiana-style house is a romantic looking house with balcony that runs along the second floor with decorative open-work iron railing, arches and posts.

The walls are usually painted white or pastel, and are of stone or blocks. There are large French windows on the balcony, and in summer the house can be enchanting. There are some drawbacks to this house in the North because of the long winter. Cold climate may increase upkeep and heating costs, one reason why perhaps there aren't more of them in the North. But one who likes the style probably will not let that stand in the way.

MANY women have discovered that they can do jobs formerly considered to be only in the man's balliwick. Plastering is one job that many women eye as a task within their scope, buto ften they are afraid to tackle it, letters indicate.

One woman writes:

"Do you think a woman who has had no experience in home repairs could repair cracked walls with plaster if she followed directions? We have several cracked walls, but no repair man. It looks simple enough, but I don't want to get into a mess."

I think if you just tried to fill up the cracks and sand them, you would not get into trouble.

But the zaniest story I know concerns a woman who attempted to remove some of the cracked plaster. Thec rack grew until finally she had a large hole. She decided to remove the entire wall, 6 by 10 feet, she was in such a frenzy, fearing her husband's wrath. She bought enormous quantities of patching plaster which was an expensive way to do it but the only method she knew.

She did such a superb job her husband invited the incredulous storekeeper who sold her the patching plaster to observe the results.

The most important point, she said, was accurate sanding, necessary to a smooth job. She used an electric sander.

HERE IS some advice from a woman who has three cats and two dogs. She writes:

"We had furnished our home on the theory that dark floorings and dark furniture fabric would hide cat hairs andt he black hairs of our Scotties. But we never quite rid the dark floor tile of the hairs because they were hard to spot. I have now found a white linoleum with a simple thread-like pattern running through it. The floor covering is not only more cheerful in the kitchen but the hairs cannot be noticed by visitors, although they are easy to spot when you mop the floor."

Many people are not as disturbed by finding animal hair on hard-surface floor ast hey are by the almost impossible task of removing hair from rugs and carpet. Vacuum cleaners are inadequate for the job usually, and the trusty old broom or even fireplace sweeper offers better pickup.

"Is it a good idea to build your house high? We'd like to do so as we have bought a large piece of land and would like to build our house behind a lovely wooded section."

It's a good idea providing you've considered the expense of road grading, etc. There is also the winter problem of snow removal. If the road that leads to your house is long and steep, snow removal could be costly.

Garden Tools Should Have Sharp Edges

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

After watching many a person make heavy work out of a light task because of a dull tool, we wonder why more attention is not paid to the sharpening of implements.

Actually, it takes less than a minute to put a fine cutting edge on the average garden or outdoor tool.

There is only one thing needed for this type of sharpening, and that is a medium fine file of the flat variety.

The procedure is to clamp the shank of the tool in a vise. If there is no vise handy, lay it on the edge of the work bench or a table. About half a dozen correct strokes will produce an excellent, raw, cutting edge — the very best there is for garden tools.

There is a right and wrong way to file anything. The right way is to use both hands on the file. The pointed end is held in the right hand and the palm of the left hand is used to press down on the other end as the file is pushed away from you. This gives the small burrs on the file a good bite into the metal being filed.

We often see people rubbing a file back and forth rapidly over an edge, under the mistaken idea that they are filing. In reality, they are just polishing the edge. You must see those fine, dust-like, sparkling bits of metal which are coming off with each stroke to know that you are getting an edge.

The semi-round turf - edger which is used to line up a lawn or road edge, is really a pleasure to use when it is sharp. The scuff hoe which is simply pushed along a surface to cut weeds, acts like a razor when it is in shape. And when it comes to digging, the spade or shovel with a keen edge reduces the labor to a minimum.

Weather Affects Quality Of Fresh Vegetable Crop

Bad weather in the growing areas in the south and far west has cut the quality — and boosted prices — on fresh vegetable crops shipped into area markets, according to Richard W. Skinner, market information specialist with the Agriculture Extension Service in Canfield.

Cold waves in December and January in Florida and Texas reduced the supplies of some vegetables considerably, Skinner said. More recently, rainy weather in the far west has lowered quality of some leafy vegetables, he said.

Prices of most fresh vegetables are above a year-earlier levels, including broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage, celery, cucumbers, peppers, endive, lettuce, onions and tomatoes. Cabbage, which is normally low at this time is now high, reflecting freeze damage. The crop is a third smaller than a year ago.

Prices of dry onions have gone up sharply as a result of uncertainty over the early spring crop in Texas. Head lettuce quality is variable, with much of the supply showing weather damage. Prices are relatively high.

About the only fresh vegetable to decline in price recently has been green beans — now at the lowest point in several weeks. Carrots and sweet potatoes are also below the high levels of a year ago. Potatoes continue at very reasonable levels, reflecting the large supply of fall-crop potatoes in storage plus some new potatoes from Florida.

On area fruit counters high-quality bananas have been leading the parade of good buys. The fruit is picked green even when it is to be eaten in the tropics. Bananas are one of the few fruits which have to be ripened off the plant for good flavor. Also, the skin will usually burst if they ripen on the plant.

To hasten ripening keep bananas in a tightly closed paper bag at room temperature. Never put bananas in the refrigerator as they lose their delicate flavor and darken without ripening.

The regulation governing added moisture in hams is back in the news. High - moisture hams again can be marketed. This is the result of the recent U.S. Court of Appeals action which ordered the U.S. District Court to enter an injunction restraining the enforcement of present regulations. The regulations, in force since November, did not permit the addition of up to 10 per cent added moisture.

So for the present, you may find federally inspected cook-before-eating hams with moisture added at your local market. The label will not tell you whether moisture has or has not been added.

Egg supplies will increase seasonally in weeks ahead, with peak production during the March - May period. Throughout the next few months egg supplies should be above a year ago — keeping prices below year - earlier levels.

Report Puts Steel Package At 8-12 Cents

CLEVELAND (AP) — Expectation that a two or three-year contract calling for an 8 to 12-cent hourly package increase will be signed by the steel industry and the United Steelworkers next month was expressed today by Steel Magazine.

The metalworking weekly said wages will be increased 4 to 5 cents, and fringe benefits—chiefly supplemental employment benefits, insurance and pension—will make up the balance.

To meet the job security problem, the publication said, the 11 bargaining steel companies have devised a plan providing for:

"Creation of plant labor pools for lower job classifications (unskilled).

"Establishment of a seniority area preference plan for the middle job classes.

"Setting up regional transfers chiefly for the higher ranking job groups."

A USW job security proposal that may also be accepted "would increase pensions for those already retired and for those about to be," Steel said. "The idea is to encourage early retirements and increase job opportunities for younger men.

"Inventory pressures are largely responsible for the speed in bargaining," the trade journal added. "Neither steel management nor labor wants stockpiling to go wild as it did in 1959."

Production dropped last week for the first time this year, Steel said, pointing out ingot output of an estimated 2,435,000 tons represented a drop of less than one per cent.

Financier Claimed

MONTREAL (AP) — Lovell Mickles, 81, industrialist and financier, died Sunday after a long illness. Mickles, who was born in Blanchard, Iowa, came to Canada in 1905 and 12 years later founded the F. P. Weaver Co. and the Montreal Dock & Coal Co. They are now Canada's largest coal importers.

Cabbage, which is normally low at this time is now high, reflecting freeze damage. The crop is a third smaller than a year ago.

Prices of dry onions have gone up sharply as a result of uncertainty over the early spring crop in Texas. Head lettuce quality is variable, with much of the supply showing weather damage. Prices are relatively high.

About the only fresh vegetable to decline in price recently has been green beans — now at the lowest point in several weeks. Carrots and sweet potatoes are also below the high levels of a year ago. Potatoes continue at very reasonable levels, reflecting the large supply of fall-crop potatoes in storage plus some new potatoes from Florida.

On area fruit counters high-quality bananas have been leading the parade of good buys. The fruit is picked green even when it is to be eaten in the tropics. Bananas are one of the few fruits which have to be ripened off the plant for good flavor. Also, the skin will usually burst if they ripen on the plant.

To hasten ripening keep bananas in a tightly closed paper bag at room temperature. Never put bananas in the refrigerator as they lose their delicate flavor and darken without ripening.

The regulation governing added moisture in hams is back in the news. High - moisture hams again can be marketed. This is the result of the recent U.S. Court of Appeals action which ordered the U.S. District Court to enter an injunction restraining the enforcement of present regulations. The regulations, in force since November, did not permit the addition of up to 10 per cent added moisture.

So for the present, you may find federally inspected cook-before-eating hams with moisture added at your local market. The label will not tell you whether moisture has or has not been added.

Egg supplies will increase seasonally in weeks ahead, with peak production during the March - May period. Throughout the next few months egg supplies should be above a year ago — keeping prices below year - earlier levels.

Report Puts Steel Package At 8-12 Cents

CLEVELAND (AP) — Expectation that a two or three-year contract calling for an 8 to 12-cent hourly package increase will be signed by the steel industry and the United Steelworkers next month was expressed today by Steel Magazine.

The metalworking weekly said wages will be increased 4 to 5 cents, and fringe benefits—chiefly supplemental employment benefits, insurance and pension—will make up the balance.

To meet the job security problem, the publication said, the 11 bargaining steel companies have devised a plan providing for:

"Creation of plant labor pools for lower job classifications (unskilled).

"Establishment of a seniority area preference plan for the middle job classes.

"Setting up regional transfers chiefly for the higher ranking job groups."

A USW job security proposal that may also be accepted "would increase pensions for those already retired and for those about to be," Steel said. "The idea is to encourage early retirements and increase job opportunities for younger men.

"Inventory pressures are largely responsible for the speed in bargaining," the trade journal added. "Neither steel management nor labor wants stockpiling to go wild as it did in 1959."

Production dropped last week for the first time this year, Steel said, pointing out ingot output of an estimated 2,435,000 tons represented a drop of less than one per cent.

Game Is Tied With 1:15 Left; ELHS Launches Tournament Bid

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Weirton's 19-0 record and its No. 2 ranking in West Virginia didn't seem to impress the East Liverpool Potters too much. They had the Riders on the ropes, but couldn't quite apply the knockout punch in losing a thrilling, 67-64, decision Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium.

A large following from Weirton, almost breathless in the waning minutes, swelled the crowd to almost 1,400.

The defeat must be considered a moral victory for the unpredictable Potters, who were at their best Saturday night.

Tonight the Potters hit the tournament trail against Steubenville Big Red at 8:30 on the Big Red Floor.

The Potter-Steubenville game will follow the Wintersville-Jefferson Union contest which gets under way at 7. Tonight's survivors will meet Wednesday at 8 in the semi-finals.

While he praised all members of his squad which saw action, Harris singled out the performance of sophomore Frank McComas. "He took advantage of his shots tonight. Before, because he is young, he seemed to be a little shy, but tonight he drove well and was shooting good from the outside."

McComas turned in a sterling performance for a sophomore and for the first time in his varsity career hit 20 points. He was outstanding Saturday night in all phases of the game.

IN THE Weirton dressing room, Coach Burdell Carey was congratulating his boys for being the team that turned in the first perfect basketball season in Weirton High School history. Saturday's victory gave the Riders an unblemished 20-0 record.

Carey praised the outstanding job turned in by the Potters. "That was a terrific club out there tonight. East Liverpool is a well-coached team. They were out to lick us and almost did."

In going over his own squad, Carey pointed out, "We had our worst night of shooting, it was below 40 per cent. We got just as many shots as we usually do but we were not hitting."

East Liverpool went into the fourth quarter trailing Weirton by nine points, 56-47. But with 1:15 remaining, the Potters' top scorer, Jack Deshler, whistled in a jump shot that tied the score at 64-64.

The same Deshler had an opportunity to put East Liverpool into the lead with 18 seconds to go. With 28 seconds remaining Dave Harriel committed his fifth personal foul and Bill Thompson stepped to the foul line and made one of two tries to put the Riders in front, 65-64.

SUBSTITUTE Ted Tomasovich fouled Deshler with 18 seconds to go, but Deshler, the top foul shot on the team, missed his first of a one and one situation and Weirton gained possession.

Only four seconds showed on the clock when Ron Williams stepped up to the foul line to drop in two charity tosses to put the game out of reach.

East Liverpool was a decided underdog going into the contest, but a great team performance almost pulled the rug from under the Red Riders.

McComas was at his best and Deshler turned in a good all-around performance. He wound up with 17 points. Tom Kraft, used mostly in the first half, dropped in nine and Roger Linville, who turned in a key role as a substitute, flipped in eight points before fouling out with 1:37 remaining.

—:—

East Liverpool lost Ed Prentice late in the second quarter when he injured his ankle. It is questionable whether the junior letter winner will be able to play in tonight's tournament engagement at Steubenville.

Weirton, which showed five starters at 6-foot-2 and taller, had three in the double figures. Thompson led the way with 17 points, 13 coming in the first half. Williams added 16 and 6-foot-4 Tyrone Gregory popped in 14.

The Riders only lost one player by the personal foul route, Ron Mortimer, 6-foot-3, leaving the game with 5:45 remaining.

FOULS decided the contest. Both teams scored 22 field goals and both squads missed eight fouls, but Weirton made 23 of 31 attempts while East Liverpool showed 20 for 28 from the foul line.

East Liverpool led through the first quarter before Weirton finally broke into a 14-12 lead with about two minutes to go in the period, then posted a 20-13 lead at the end of the quarter. Thompson led the first period rush with nine points.

Weirton widened the edge to 10 points, 39-29, at halftime and posted a 56-47 advantage at the end of three quarters.

McComas, who sank eight of 11 foul attempts, was consistent all the way through as was Deshler.

The fine performance ended a rocky road for the Potters this season, leaving them with a 7-11 record. Among those defeats were four losses by one and two points.

United Edged By Rebels In 42-40 Contest

Crestview jumped off to a quick start, but then had its hands full holding United in check to capture the Columbiana County Class A crown with a 42-40 victory Saturday night at Beaver Local.

Coach Bruce Weber's squad, which was rated among Ohio's top 10 teams during the season, grabbed a 17-4 first period lead and coasted along until the fourth quarter when United applied the pressure, but fell short in an attempt to win its second straight County title.

United, which gained the finals by routing Salineville Wednesday, saw its top scorer Jerry Schaffer held to six points. He had been averaging 19 points.

Crestview took a fine 16-2 record into Saturday's battle, while United concluded the season with an 11-9 mark.

After the big lead posted in the first quarter, Crestview was on top 27-17 at halftime and 34-26 after three periods before United made its move.

Big Jim Kress, Crestview's 6-foot-7 junior star, fired under his average but paced the Rebels with 12 points. Ray Brown contributed a valuable 10-point performance.

The Red Riders will be idle until Friday night when they meet the winner of the Lakeland-Cadiz game.

Springfield's Flying Tigers will meet Conotton Valley in the Sectional opener Tuesday night at 7. Cadiz and Lakeland, two Harrison County powers, meet in the second game.

Stanton Local and Flushing drew byes in Sunday's pairings. Flushing meets the winner of the Springfield-Conotton Valley game on Friday night. Two winners will advance to District tournament play later at Brilliant.

Leading by 31-24 at halftime, the Red Raiders spurted to a 51-34 lead at the end of three periods and maintained their sharp attack to win handily behind 22 points by veteran Bob Mills and 15 by All-Ohio Don Spires.

DEPENDABLE starters Jim Leedy and Curt Rose also hit in double figures with 12 and 10 points, respectively, for Stanton.

Charlie Sinatra led Coach Gary Crowe's Springfield quint with 18 points, while Dale Featheringham had 11.

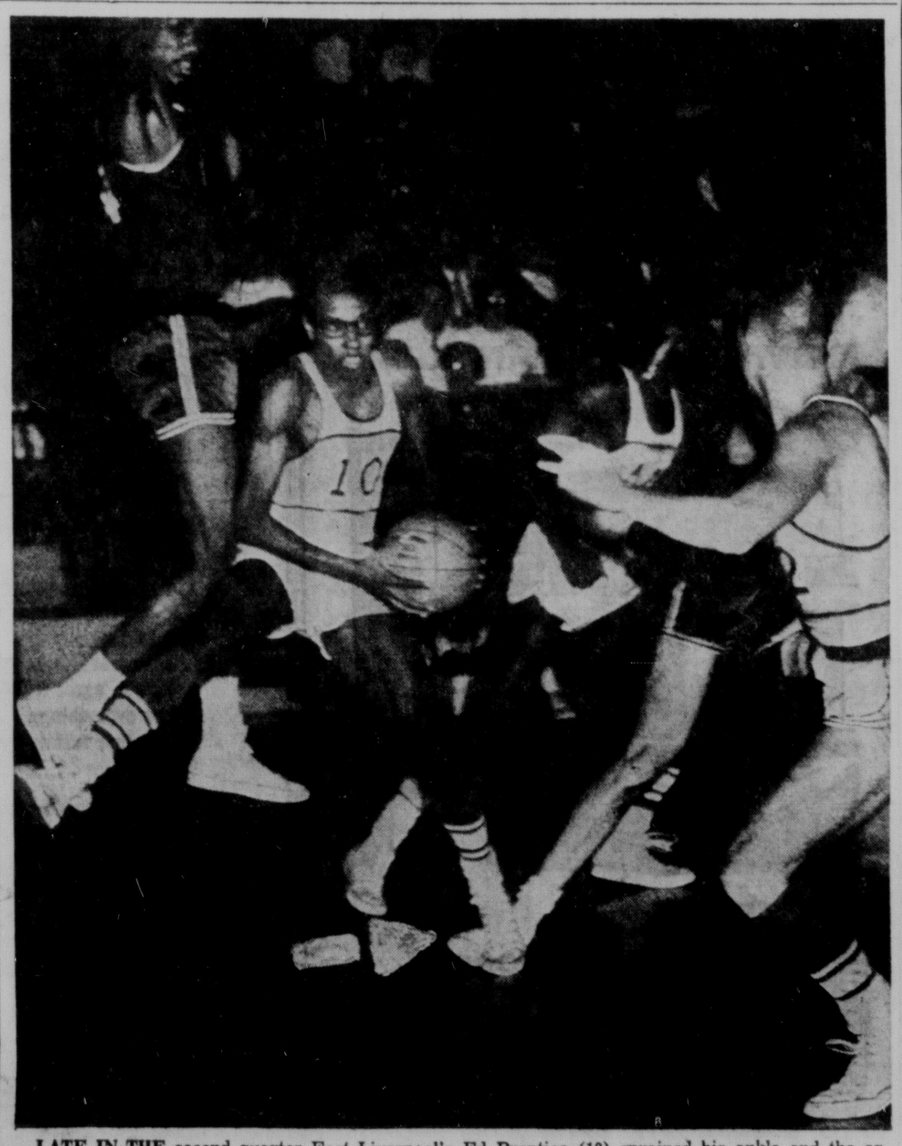
Bo Wininger Grabs Title At New Orleans

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I almost gave it away a couple of times," quipped handsome, gray-haired Bo Wininger after he sank a four-foot putt for a birdie on No. 18 to win his first golf tour victory in nearly six years.

Wininger, 39, who plays only occasionally since he quit the grueling PGA circuit 30 months ago to work as a public relations man for a Texas oil well supply firm, shot a four-under-par 68 Sunday for a 281 total to win the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open by two strokes.

He fashioned his 68 with a 33-35 and withstood pressure from pudgy Bob Rosburg, the onetime PGA titlist from Portland, Ore., who finished second with a 69 and 283 total.



LATE IN THE second quarter East Liverpool's Ed Prentice (10) sprained his ankle and the arrow shows how he did it. Prentice with the ball steps on the foot of an unidentified Weirton player and at the same time Tyrone Gregory leaps into Prentice. The Potter regular had to be removed from the game and his substitute Roger Linville shot the foul. At the extreme right of the picture is East Liverpool's Jack Deshler.

IN THE Weirton dressing room, Coach Burdell Carey was congratulating his boys for being the team that turned in the first perfect basketball season in Weirton High School history. Saturday's victory gave the Riders an unblemished 20-0 record.

Carey praised the outstanding job turned in by the Potters. "That was a terrific club out there tonight. East Liverpool is a well-coached team. They were out to lick us and almost did."

In going over his own squad, Carey pointed out, "We had our worst night of shooting, it was below 40 per cent. We got just as many shots as we usually do but we were not hitting."

East Liverpool went into the fourth quarter trailing Weirton by nine points, 56-47. But with 1:15 remaining, the Potters' top scorer, Jack Deshler, whistled in a jump shot that tied the score at 64-64.

The same Deshler had an opportunity to put East Liverpool into the lead with 18 seconds to go. With 28 seconds remaining Dave Harriel committed his fifth personal foul and Bill Thompson stepped to the foul line and made one of two tries to put the Riders in front, 65-64.

—:—

SUBSTITUTE Ted Tomasovich fouled Deshler with 18 seconds to go, but Deshler, the top foul shot on the team, missed his first of a one and one situation and Weirton gained possession.

Only four seconds showed on the clock when Ron Williams stepped up to the foul line to drop in two charity tosses to put the game out of reach.

East Liverpool was a decided underdog going into the contest, but a great team performance almost pulled the rug from under the Red Riders.

McComas was at his best and Deshler turned in a good all-around performance. He wound up with 17 points. Tom Kraft, used mostly in the first half, dropped in nine and Roger Linville, who turned in a key role as a substitute, flipped in eight points before fouling out with 1:37 remaining.

—:—

East Liverpool lost Ed Prentice late in the second quarter when he injured his ankle. It is questionable whether the junior letter winner will be able to play in tonight's tournament engagement at Steubenville.

Weirton, which showed five starters at 6-foot-2 and taller, had three in the double figures. Thompson led the way with 17 points, 13 coming in the first half. Williams added 16 and 6-foot-4 Tyrone Gregory popped in 14.

The Riders only lost one player by the personal foul route, Ron Mortimer, 6-foot-3, leaving the game with 5:45 remaining.

FOULS decided the contest. Both teams scored 22 field goals and both squads missed eight fouls, but Weirton made 23 of 31 attempts while East Liverpool showed 20 for 28 from the foul line.

East Liverpool led through the first quarter before Weirton finally broke into a 14-12 lead with about two minutes to go in the period, then posted a 20-13 lead at the end of the quarter. Thompson led the first period rush with nine points.

Weirton widened the edge to 10 points, 39-29, at halftime and posted a 56-47 advantage at the end of three quarters.

McComas, who sank eight of 11 foul attempts, was consistent all the way through as was Deshler.

The fine performance ended a rocky road for the Potters this season, leaving them with a 7-11 record. Among those defeats were four losses by one and two points.

United Edged By Rebels In 42-40 Contest

Crestview jumped off to a quick start, but then had its hands full holding United in check to capture the Columbiana County Class A crown with a 42-40 victory Saturday night at Beaver Local.

Coach Bruce Weber's squad, which was rated among Ohio's top 10 teams during the season, grabbed a 17-4 first period lead and coasted along until the fourth quarter when United applied the pressure, but fell short in an attempt to win its second straight County title.

United, which gained the finals by routing Salineville Wednesday, saw its top scorer Jerry Schaffer held to six points. He had been averaging 19 points.

Crestview took a fine 16-2 record into Saturday's battle, while United concluded the season with an 11-9 mark.

After the big lead posted in the first quarter, Crestview was on top 27-17 at halftime and 34-26 after three periods before United made its move.

Big Jim Kress, Crestview's 6-foot-7 junior star, fired under his average but paced the Rebels with 12 points. Ray Brown contributed a valuable 10-point performance.

United captured the reserve tournament with a 67-44 victory over Salineville.

Mills' 22 Pace Raiders To No. 21; Sectional Battle Set Friday

Stanton Local High's Red Raiders won their second championship in a row Saturday night with a 69-58 victory over old rival Springfield in the windup of the 38th annual Jefferson County Class A tournament at Brilliant.

Subduing Springfield for the third time this year, the Irondale five came through with a decisive victory in the showdown battle for the county title before an overflow crowd of 1,800.

Both Stanton Local (21-0) and Springfield (16-5) qualified for this week's Sectional eliminations at Brilliant High School.

The Red Riders will be idle until Friday night when they meet the winner of the Lakeland-Cadiz game.

Springfield's Flying Tigers will meet Conotton Valley in the Sectional opener Tuesday night at 7. Cadiz and Lakeland, two Harrison County powers, meet in the second game.

Stanton Local and Flushing drew byes in Sunday's pairings. Flushing meets the winner of the Springfield-Conotton Valley game on Friday night. Two winners will advance to District tournament play later at Brilliant.

—:—

DEFENDING county champion Stanton Local pulled away quickly in the third quarter in gaining its second title in succession, over Springfield.

Leading by 31-24 at halftime, the Red Raiders spurted to a 51-34 lead at the end of three periods and maintained their sharp attack to win handily behind 22 points by veteran Bob Mills and 15 by All-Ohio Don Spires.

DEPENDABLE starters Jim Leedy and Curt Rose also hit in double figures with 12 and 10 points, respectively, for Stanton.

Charlie Sinatra led Coach Gary Crowe's Springfield quint with 18 points, while Dale Featheringham had 11.

Featheringham startled the crowd when he scored a field goal in the wrong basket during the tense action.

Lisbon led all the way in eliminating Beaver Local, 69-58, in an opening round contest of the Sectional Class AA tournament Saturday at the South High Fieldhouse in Youngstown.

The victory put Lisbon into a match with Liberty on Thursday at 8:30 at the South Side Fieldhouse. Liberty was a 69-56 winner over Newton Falls.

Lisbon jumped in front, 15-8 at the end of the first quarter and built the lead to 36-23 at halftime and 46-34 after three periods. Beaver Local came within five points of Lisbon one time in the third quarter but failed to move any closer.

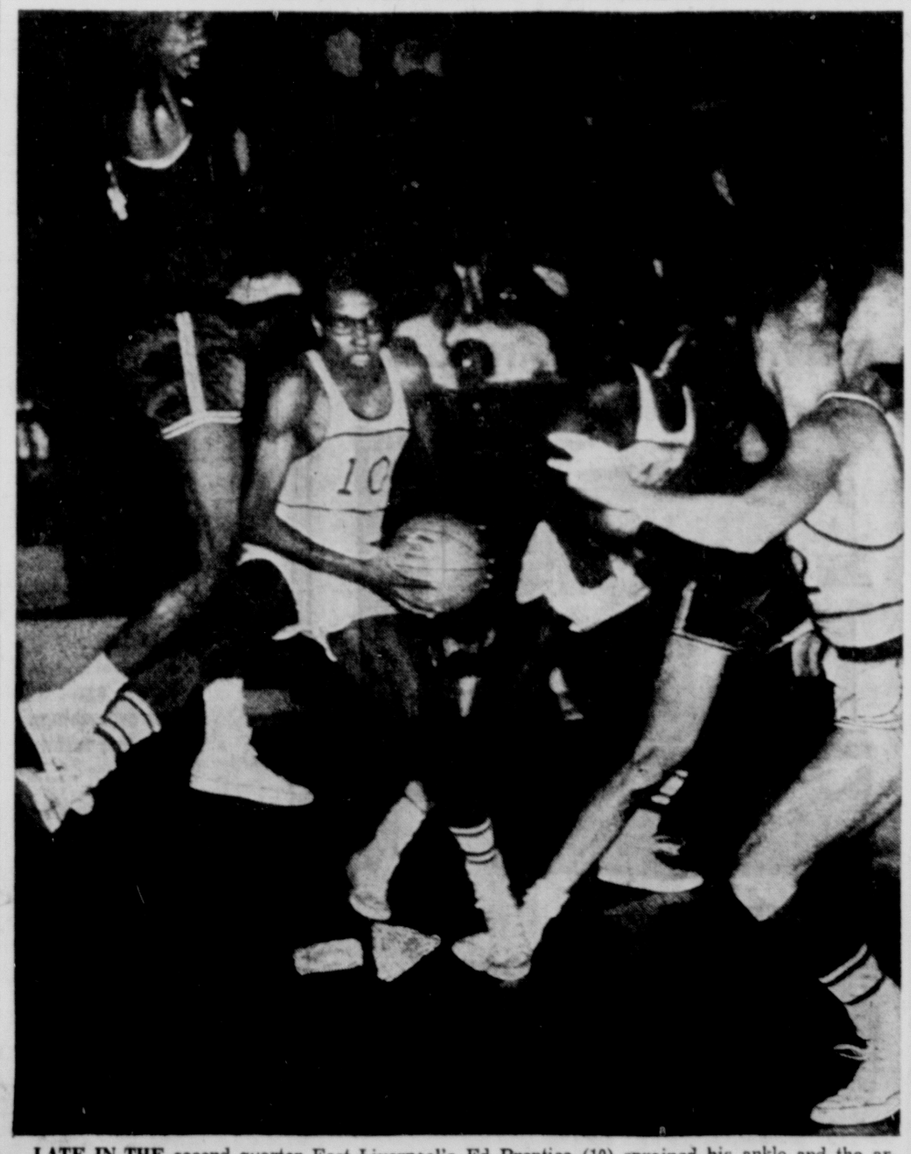
Bo Wininger Grabs Title At New Orleans

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "I almost gave it away a couple of times," quipped handsome, gray-haired Bo Wininger after he sank a four-foot putt for a birdie on No. 18 to win his first golf tour victory in nearly six years.

Wininger, 39, who plays only occasionally since he quit the grueling PGA circuit 30 months ago to work as a public relations man for a Texas oil well supply firm, shot a four-under-par 68 Sunday for a 281 total to win the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open by two strokes.

He fashioned his 68 with a 33-35 and withstood pressure from pudgy Bob Rosburg, the onetime PGA titlist from Portland, Ore., who finished second with a 69 and 283 total.



LATE IN THE second quarter East Liverpool's Ed Prentice (10) sprained his ankle and the arrow shows how he did it. Prentice with the ball steps on the foot of an unidentified Weirton player and at the same time Tyrone Gregory leaps into Prentice. The Potter regular had to be removed from the game and his substitute Roger Linville shot the foul. At the extreme right of the picture is East Liverpool's Jack Deshler.

Cumberland Eliminated, 50-42

Bethany Five Advances To Region Play

FOLLANSBEE — New Cumberland hit the end of the tournament trail when Bethany came from behind in the fourth quarter to deal the Blue Raiders, a 50-42 setback here Saturday night in the finals of the Section 1 tourney.

Bethany replaces New Cumberland as Sectional champs and advances to regional play at St. Mary's.

Coach John Kuzio's squad, which advanced to the area finals last season, had the upperhand throughout three periods but disaster struck in the fourth quarter, when the Raiders could only score three points.

Leading 14-11 at the first quarter mark, New Cumberland held a 27-21 halftime margin and 39-36 at the end of the third period.

The Raiders couldn't hit in the final eight minutes as Bethany outscored Kuzio's crew, 14-3.

Bill Postle paced the Bethany five with 16 points. Ken Freshwater's 11 markers topped New Cumberland.

New Cumberland's Gary Nardo and Freshwater were named to the all-tournament team.

Max Bishop, Baseball Coach At Navy, Dies

BALTIMORE (AP) — Funeral services for Naval Academy baseball coach Max Bishop will be held in Baltimore Thursday, the day he was to retire from a long baseball career.

The 62-year-old coach and former major league ball player died in his sleep in Waynesboro, Pa., Saturday night, the victim of an apparent heart attack.

Five members of the Los Angeles Angels drove out 20 or more home runs in 1961. Leon Wagner led with 28.

St. Louis Could Send Cincinnati U. To NCAA Again By Upsetting Bradley

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

One year ago Bradley went up against the St. Louis Billikens needing a victory to tie Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley basketball title and force a playoff for the conference's berth in the NCAA tournament.

St. Louis upset the Braves, putting Cincinnati in the NCAA. The Bearcats went all the way to the national championship.

History is repeating itself. Cincinnati wrapped up at least a share of its fifth successive Missouri Valley title Saturday night by ripping Wichita 84-63 and finishing with a 10-2 conference record. Bradley can catch the Bearcats if it wins its final game—at St. Louis this Saturday.

If that happens, the two nationally ranked rivals will have their playoff on a neutral floor, with the NCAA spot as the prize.

The Missouri Valley hassle is only one of many tangled races among the 16 conferences which will send teams to the NCAA classic, which opens March 12 with first-round competition.

Ohio State's powerful Buckeyes, driving toward their third straight Big Ten crown, swamped Illinois Saturday for a perfect 21-0 record. Wisconsin maintained its mathematical chance for the title—the surprise of the basketball year if the Badgers should pull it off—by trimming Northwestern 65-64. Tonight, Ohio State is at Iowa and the Badgers are at home to Minnesota. On Saturday they'll meet head-on at Wisconsin.

Yale has the big edge in the Ivy League, two games up on Penn and Cornell with all three winding up the season with two games this weekend—including Penn at Cornell Friday. UCLA has a three-game edge on Southern California and Stanford in the Big Five, with three games left for the three contenders. Pepperdine is the frontrunner in the West Coast Athletic Conference and has a good chance at taking it all Saturday night against second-place St. Mary's.

Utah, on NCAA probation and ineligible for postseason play, kept in front in the Skyline by outscoring Brigham Young 106-101 Saturday night as Billy McGill went on a 60-point spree. Utah State and Colorado State University, the two contenders for the NCAA berth, also won and stayed deadlocked for second behind the Utes. Utah could knock CSU out of the running when they tangle at Salt Lake City Thursday night.

Now for the battles—

Colorado and Kansas State are producing the fireworks in the Big Eight, with the Buffaloes 10-0 and the Wildcats 9-1 and a showdown at K-State Saturday. Each has two games afterwards.

Kentucky (10-1) at Auburn (10-2) tonight should be the key in the Southeastern, even though they are running 2-3 behind defending conference champion Mississippi State (11-1). Mississippi State has announced it would not be interested in an NCAA bid because of the state's custom against racially integrated athletics.

The Southwest Conference, as usual, is a scramble with Texas Tech and Southern Methodist tied at the top (9-3) and Texas A&M at 8-4. The Aggies are at Tech Tuesday night while SMU plays last-place Baylor, and they'll each have one game later.

Lafayette is ahead in the Middle Atlantic at 9-1 with Temple and St. Joseph's (Pa.) its chief rivals at 7-1. Since Lafayette plays 12 league games to nine for the other two clubs, a playoff looms as a good possibility. Massachusetts tops the Yankee standings at 7-2 and finishes at home against New Hampshire Saturday, while Rhode Island is 6-2 with games against Maine Thursday and Connecticut Saturday.

The two remaining NCAA assignments will go the winners of the annual Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference tourneys, set for this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Wake Forest, Duke and North Carolina State are regarded the top numbers in the ACC playoffs, and perennial champion West Virginia is favored in the Southern tourney.

Colavito, Maris Top Holdout List

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Busiest man around baseball's spring camps during the early stages when rigid muscles refuse to respond is the trainer—and Baltimore's medical cure-all today went after slugging Oriole first baseman Jim Gentile with everything in his arsenal.

Gentile, who provided the power for the Orioles last season as he hit .302, rapped 46 homers and drove in 141 runs, reported early at his own request and began spraying well-hit drives all over the field.

When Gentile assessed his efforts over the weekend, he found he had badly bruised a batch of baseballs—and hadn't neglected himself. Trainer Billy Weidner declared Gentile a member of the club's linament brigade with a jammed right thumb, infected ingrown toenail and three open blisters on each hand.

Elsewhere, it was a similar story. In the most serious accidents, outfielder Ken Hunt of the Los Angeles Angels was struck on the left elbow by a pitch from Johnny James and rookie hurler Roy Heiser of the Washington Senators twisted his knee and will be forced to miss several workouts.

Bruised pride also was a problem over the weekend as the Detroit Tigers slugging outfielder, Rocky Colavito, joined home run king Roger Maris of the New York Yankees as the top names among American League players dissatisfied with their contract offers.

Colavito spoke with Tigers' General Manager Rick Ferrell from his home in Temple, Pa., after he sent back his third contract, but the talks got nowhere. The 45-homer hitter has been offered a 40 per cent raise but is holding out for well over $50,000.

It was learned that Maris, who hammered 61 homers in 1961, and the Yankees are $8,000 apart in their salary negotiations. Maris has reduced his asking price to $70,000 and the Yanks have come up $2,000 on their original offer.

Four satisfied signers were reported. Catcher Charlie Lau of Baltimore, pitcher Paul Foytack of Detroit, outfielder Pete Jernigan of Boston and outfielder Richie Ashburn of the New York Mets.

The Philadelphia Phils picked up catcher Sammy White, a free agent formerly with the Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Braves, but lost third baseman Andy Carey, who notified the club he is retiring.

Infielder Daryl Spencer, outfielder Duke Snider and pitcher Ed Roebuck, all on the injured list part of the 1961 campaign, were in sharp form at the Los Angeles Dodgers workout.

Beatty Won't Go After New Indoor Marks Now

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Beatty, the world's first indoor sub-four-minute miler, is inclined to let his 3:58.9 record stand for another year and look ahead to the outdoor season and an assault on Peter Snell's 3:54.4 world mark.

The little Los Angeles Track Club star still has two races remaining on his indoor schedule, the Bankers Mile in the Chicago Daily News Relays on March 9 and the 1,000 or the mile in the Milwaukee Journal meet on March 10.

"I hope to run fast races," he said Sunday before heading for a visit to his in-laws in Gastonia, N.C., "but right now I'm inclined not to go after any more records this winter. We have a lot of work to do in preparation for the outdoor season.

Beatty won the National AAU Mile Saturday night in 4:00.2 in Madison Square Garden. The week before he had clocked 4:00.9 in the New York Athletic Club meet. He had no competition in the AAU mile. Cary Wiesiger of the Quantico Marines, his closest pursuer, was 25 yards back in 4:04.6.

Beatty's coach, Mihaly (Mike) Igloi, made no secret of his plans.

"I have scheduled Jim to lower the mile record to 3:54 before the end of the year (meaning the end of the summer)," he said.

Igloi also has his plans laid out two years ahead, except that he's not sure whether Beatty will run the 1,500 meters or the 5,000 meters in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Charlie Mays, a 21-year-old Maryland State junior, scored the biggest upset of the meet when he won the broad jump, beating Ralph Boston, the world kingpin with a jump of 24-10¾.

John Thomas of Boston University cleared seven feet for the first time this winter and showed himself to be getting back in shape. Gary Gubner of New York University failed in his 65-foot bid, but his 62-10 was more than enough to win the shotput.

Retired Man, 86, Dislikes His Product

DUXBURY, Mass. (AP) — Eighty-six-year-old H. E. Merry isn't fond of chickens or eggs, but they're providing a pretty good living for him in his retirement.

When Merry retired from the meat business 10 years ago, he began raising Rhode Island Red chickens and selling "extra large eggs." He says seven of every dozen are double - yoked. He has peddled as many as 215 dozen in a week.

Even so, Merry says, "I dislike both eggs and chickens."

Highest Voltage

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Electric and Power Company plans to build the first 500,000-volt transmission system in America. It will extend from VEPCO's generating plant in the West Virginia coal fields to the suburbs of Washington city and to the Staunton-Waynesboro area of Virginia. Transmission lines of 250,000 to 350,000 volts are the biggest in commercial use in this country.

Engineers Can Catch Gun Shells On The Fly

DOVER, N. J. (AP) — Engineers at Picatinny Arsenal, the Army's research center for ammunition and special weapons, are able to catch artillery shells on the fly.

The feat is achieved by synchronizing the firing of a 155 mm gun and the launching of a rocket sled, traveling in the same direction as the shell.

The shell, which moves at a speed of 1,625 feet per second, plops undamaged into a padded box on the sled, which rockets along at 1,450 feet per second.

The method was developed to enable engineers to study initial firing effects on shells.

Woman Calls Police Before It Happened

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Some people don't wait until something happens to call police.

A woman here called police recently and complained that a youngster next door was piling snow on her fence.

A patrolman arrived and found no boy and no snow piled on the fence. So he checked with the woman.

She explained that the boy hadn't thrown any snow her way yet this winter but that he had done it every other year.

Cumberland Eliminated, 50-42

Bethany Five Advances To Region Play

FOLLANSBEE — New Cumberland hit the end of the tournament trail when Bethany came from behind in the fourth quarter to deal the Blue Raiders, a 50-42 setback here Saturday night in the finals of the Section 1 tourney.

Bethany replaces New Cumberland as Sectional champs and advances to regional play at St. Mary's.

Coach John Kuzio's squad, which advanced to the area finals last season, had the upperhand throughout three periods but disaster struck in the fourth quarter, when the Raiders could only score three points.

Leading 14-11 at the first quarter mark, New Cumberland held a 27-21 halftime margin and 39-36 at the end of the third period.

The Raiders couldn't hit in the final eight minutes as Bethany outscored Kuzio's crew, 14-3.

Bill Postle paced the Bethany five with 16 points. Ken Freshwater's 11 markers topped New Cumberland.

New Cumberland's Gary Nardo and Freshwater were named to the all-tournament team.

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—Archers from the northwestern area of the state picked up all the titles in the state indoor championships held here last weekend by the Ohio Archery Association. The event attracted over 200 bow and arrow enthusiasts.

George Zimmerman of Huron won the men's professional crown and Gertrude Hitt of Archbold copped the similar title in the women's competition.

Grace Frye won the women's amateur contest. The men's title as well as the team championship will be decided today.

In the intermediate division, for youths under 18 years of age, Dave Howard of Toledo led the field.

Max Bishop, Baseball Coach At Navy, Dies

BALTIMORE (AP) — Funeral services for Naval Academy baseball coach Max Bishop will be held in Baltimore Thursday, the day he was to retire from a long baseball career.

The 62-year-old coach and former major league ball player died in his sleep in Waynesboro, Pa., Saturday night, the victim of an apparent heart attack.

Five members of the Los Angeles Angels drove out 20 or more home runs in 1961. Leon Wagner led with 28.

St. Louis Could Send Cincinnati U. To NCAA Again By Upsetting Bradley

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

One year ago Bradley went up against the St. Louis Billikens needing a victory to tie Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley basketball title and force a playoff for the conference's berth in the NCAA tournament.

St. Louis upset the Braves, putting Cincinnati in the NCAA. The Bearcats went all the way to the national championship.

History is repeating itself. Cincinnati wrapped up at least a share of its fifth successive Missouri Valley title Saturday night by ripping Wichita 84-63 and finishing with a 10-2 conference record. Bradley can catch the Bearcats if it wins its final game—at St. Louis this Saturday.

If that happens, the two nationally ranked rivals will have their playoff on a neutral floor, with the NCAA spot as the prize.

The Missouri Valley hassle is only one of many tangled races among the 16 conferences which will send teams to the NCAA classic, which opens March 12 with first-round competition.

Ohio State's powerful Buckeyes, driving toward their third straight Big Ten crown, swamped Illinois Saturday for a perfect 21-0 record. Wisconsin maintained its mathematical chance for the title —the surprise of the basketball year if the Badgers should pull it off—by trimming Northwestern 65-64. Tonight, Ohio State is at Iowa and the Badgers are at home to Minnesota. On Saturday they'll meet head-on at Wisconsin.

Yale has the big edge in the Ivy League, two games up on Penn and Cornell with all three winding up the season with two games this weekend—including Penn at Cornell Friday. UCLA has a three-game edge on Southern California and Stanford in the Big Five, with three games left for the three contenders. Pepperdine is the frontrunner in the West Coast Athletic Conference and has a good chance at taking it all Saturday night against second-place St. Mary's.

Utah, on NCAA probation and ineligible for postseason play, kept in front in the Skyline by outscoring Brigham Young 106-101 Saturday night as Billy McGill went on a 60-point spree. Utah State and Colorado State University, the two contenders for the NCAA berth, also won and stayed deadlocked for second behind the Utes. Utah could knock CSU out of the running when they tangle at Salt Lake City Thursday night.

Now for the battles—

Colorado and Kansas State are producing the fireworks in the Big Eight, with the Buffaloes 10-0 and the Wildcats 9-1 and a showdown at K-State Saturday. Each has two games afterwards.

Kentucky (10-1) at Auburn (10-2) tonight should be the key in the Southeastern, even though they are running 2-3 behind defending conference champion Mississippi State (11-1). Mississippi State has announced it would not be interested in an NCAA bid because of the state's custom against racially integrated athletics.

The Southwest Conference, as usual, is a scramble with Texas Tech and Southern Methodist tied at the top (9-3) and Texas A&M at 8-4. The Aggies are at Tech Tuesday night while SMU plays last-place Baylor, and they'll each have one game later.

Lafayette is ahead in the Middle Atlantic at 9-1 with Temple and St. Joseph's (Pa.) its chief rivals at 7-1. Since Lafayette plays 12 league games to nine for the other two clubs, a playoff looms as a good possibility. Massachusetts tops the Yankee standings at 7-2 and finishes at home against New Hampshire Saturday, while Rhode Island is 6-2 with games against Maine Thursday and Connecticut Saturday.

The two remaining NCAA assignments will go the winners of the annual Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference tourneys, set for this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Wake Forest, Duke and North Carolina State are regarded the top numbers in the ACC playoffs, and perennial champion West Virginia is favored in the Southern tourney.

Cincinnati Man Faces Quizzing For Murder

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police planned more questioning today for Charles Edward Delph, 32, in the butcher-knife slaying of his wife, Veralyn, 33.

Detectives said Delph surrendered Sunday shortly after his wife's body was found in their apartment near downtown Cincinnati. No charge was filed immediately.

Colavito, Maris Top Holdout List

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Busiest man around baseball's spring camps during the early stages when rigid muscles refuse to respond is the trainer—and Baltimore's medical cure-all today went after slugging Oriole first baseman Jim Gentile with everything in his arsenal.

Gentile, who provided the power for the Orioles last season as he hit .302, rapped 46 homers and drove in 141 runs, reported early at his own request and began spraying well-hit drives all over the field.

When Gentile assessed his efforts over the weekend, he found he had badly bruised a batch of baseballs—and hadn't neglected himself. Trainer Billy Weidner declared Gentile a member of the club's linament brigade with a jammed right thumb, infected ingrown toenail and three open blisters on each hand.

Elsewhere, it was a similar story. In the most serious accidents, outfielder Ken Hunt of the Los Angeles Angels was struck on the left elbow by a pitch from Johnny James and rookie hurler Roy Heiser of the Washington Senators twisted his knee and will be forced to miss several workouts.

Bruised pride also was a problem over the weekend as the Detroit Tigers slugging outfielder, Rocky Colavito, joined home run king Roger Maris of the New York Yankees as the top names among American League players dissatisfied with their contract offers.

Colavito spoke with Tigers' General Manager Rick Ferrell from his home in Temple, Pa., after he sent back his third contract, but the talks got nowhere. The 45-homer hitter has been offered a 40 per cent raise but is holding out for well over $50,000.

It was learned that Maris, who hammered 61 homers in 1961, and the Yankees are $8,000 apart in their salary negotiations. Maris has reduced his asking price to $70,000 and the Yanks have come up $2,000 on their original offer.

Four satisfied signers were reported. Catcher Charlie Lau of Baltimore, pitcher Paul Foytack of Detroit, outfielder Pete Jernigan of Boston and outfielder Richie Ashburn of the New York Mets.

The Philadelphia Phils picked up catcher Sammy White, a free agent formerly with the Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Braves, but lost third baseman Andy Carey, who notified the club he is retiring.

Infielder Daryl Spencer, outfielder Duke Snider and pitcher Ed Roebuck, all on the injured list part of the 1961 campaign, were in sharp form at the Los Angeles Dodgers workout.

Beatty Won't Go After New Indoor Marks Now

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Beatty, the world's first indoor sub-four-minute miler, is inclined to let his 3:58.9 record stand for another year and look ahead to the outdoor season and an assault on Peter Snell's 3:54.4 world mark.

The little Los Angeles Track Club star still has two races remaining on his indoor schedule, the Bankers Mile in the Chicago Daily News Relays on March 9 and the 1,000 or the mile in the Milwaukee Journal meet on March 10.

"I hope to run fast races," he said Sunday before heading for a visit to his in-laws in Gastonia, N.C., "but right now I'm inclined not to go after any more records this winter. We have a lot of work to do in preparation for the outdoor season.

Beatty won the National AAU Mile Saturday night in 4:00.2 in Madison Square Garden. The week before he had clocked 4:00.9 in the New York Athletic Club meet. He had no competition in the AAU mile. Cary Wiesiger of the Quantico Marines, his closest pursuer, was 25 yards back in 4:04.6.

Beatty's coach, Mihaly (Mike) Igloi, made no secret of his plans.

"I have scheduled Jim to lower the mile record to 3:54 before the end of the year (meaning the end of the summer)," he said.

Igloi also has his plans laid out two years ahead, except that he's not sure whether Beatty will run the 1,500 meters or the 5,000 meters in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo.

Charlie Mays, a 21-year-old Maryland State junior, scored the biggest upset of the meet when he won the broad jump, beating Ralph Boston, the world kingpin with a jump of 24-10¾.

John Thomas of Boston University cleared seven feet for the first time this winter and showed himself to be getting back in shape. Gary Gubner of New York University failed in his 65-foot bid, but his 62-10 was more than enough to win the shotput.

Retired Man, 86, Dislikes His Product

DUXBURY, Mass. (AP) — Eighty-six-year-old H. E. Merry isn't fond of chickens or eggs, but they're providing a pretty good living for him in his retirement.

When Merry retired from the meat business 10 years ago, he began raising Rhode Island Red chickens and selling "extra large eggs." He says seven of every dozen are double - yoked. He has peddled as many as 215 dozen in a week.

Even so, Merry says, "I dislike both eggs and chickens."

Highest Voltage

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Electric and Power Company plans to build the first 500,000-volt transmission system in America. It will extend from VEPCO's generating plant in the West Virginia coal fields to the suburbs of Washington city and to the Staunton-Waynesboro area of Virginia. Transmission lines of 250,000 to 350,000 volts are the biggest in commercial use in this country.

Engineers Can Catch Gun Shells On The Fly

DOVER, N. J. (AP) — Engineers at Picatinny Arsenal, the Army's research center for ammunition and special weapons, are able to catch artillery shells on the fly.

The feat is achieved by synchronizing the firing of a 155 mm gun and the launching of a rocket sled, traveling in the same direction as the shell.

The shell, which moves at a speed of 1,625 feet per second, plops undamaged into a padded box on the sled, which rockets along at 1,450 feet per second.

The method was developed to enable engineers to study initial firing effects on shells.

Woman Calls Police Before It Happened

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Some people don't wait until something happens to call police.

A woman here called police recently and complained that a youngster next door was piling snow on her fence.

A patrolman arrived and found no boy and no snow piled on the fence. So he checked with the woman.

She explained that the boy hadn't thrown any snow her way yet this winter but that he had done it every other year.

How Can I?

Q. Can you suggest a "home-made" bleach for my hair?

A. Here's one that should add a beautiful sheen and brilliant highlights to your tresses: Mix ½-cup of three-per-cent peroxide, the juice of one lemon, and the beaten white of one egg. Apply to your hair, and leave on about an hour — or to the degree to which you wish your hair lightened — then rinse with cool water, and shampoo.

Q. How can I shine patent leather?

A. Use one-third water and two-thirds vinegar, or use petroleum jelly. After applying either, go over the entire surface with a clean, dry cloth.

Q. Please suggest a quick and efficient method of removing wallpaper.

A. Wet the bottom of a panel of paper with a sponge, dipped in water, let this soak for about 20 minutes or more, then lift the soaked paper, and all the layers will dislodge all the way to the top of the wall.

Q. Do you have a suggestion for keeping a very shallow hat anchored on my head?

A. You can try sewing to the sweatband of the hat a small grip-tooth comb to catch in your hair. Or, of course, you can always tie your hat on with a veil.

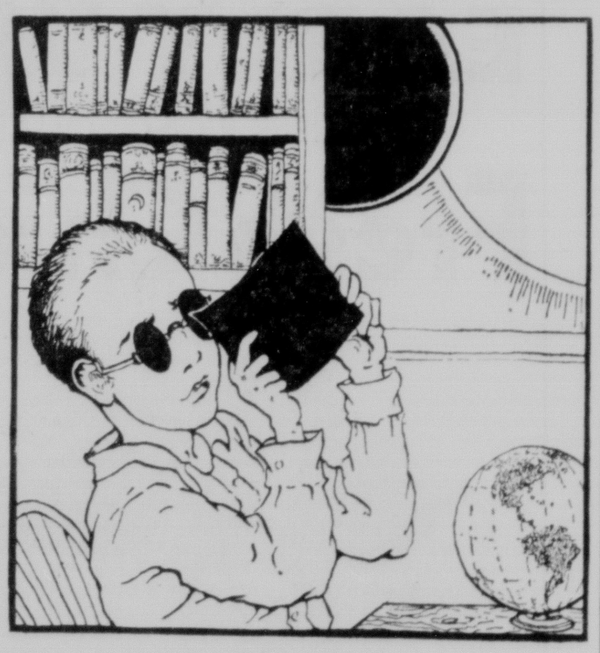
Q. How can I remove acid stains from fabrics?

A. Dampen the spots, and then cover with salts of wormwood. Let this remain for a few minutes, then rub the stains with a dry cloth.

use of every bit of catsup in a bottle without waste?

A. When you have seemingly emptied the bottle, pour into it the correct amount of salad oil, vinegar, and seasoning for French dressing, and shake vigorously. That bit of catsup will add a piquant flavor.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE SUN



QUESTION: How can we foretell an eclipse of the sun?

ANSWER: Since the moon whirls around the earth and the earth whirls around the sun, sooner or later the moon is bound to hit a spot where it is between the earth and the sun. This causes an eclipse of the sun. It occurs when the moon arrives at a spot where, with the sun on one side of it and the earth on another, it casts a shadow on the earth. It seems strange that eclipses don't occur more often than they do. Actually there are more eclipses than we realize. The shadow of the moon is cast on only a small section of the earth during each eclipse, so that many eclipses can be seen only in the middle of the sea, or in the jungle. Astronomers know the paths the earth and moon move in, and they can easily work out when an eclipse will occur, and where it will be. When an eclipse takes place in a section of the United States, astronomers know years in advance. Before that time, they make certain that everyone in that spot knows when it will happen.

FOR YOU TO DO: Next time there is an eclipse of the sun in your area, watch it carefully, wearing dark glasses and looking through a piece of glass coated with lampblack. It is frightening at first, as the moon begins to cover up the sun and it grows dark in the middle of the day, but it is an interesting and exciting sight.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYER

Toys Help Develop . . . entration

Begin early to cultivate good habits of concentration in your child. When your baby begins playing with his hands and manipulating or examining safe playthings for a protracted period, try not to divert his attention. The longer he chooses to concentrate on such an object of interest or activity, the better. As he goes on in self-amusement with playthings, continue ways to cause him to keep at it for longer and longer periods. Having too many toys at one time is not favorable for concentration at any age. When he begins to put things together with apparent purpose--to scribble and create with crayons, pencil or paint—express pleasure over his creations and the more so the longer he has concentrated on them.

AS HE BEGINS to communicate with grunts and gestures, listen raptly to what he is trying to tell or ask you. Be always ready to explain and to answer his questions.

The longer his interest seems to be centered on related matters, the better. Also, there is merit in his returning again and again to some group of interests or activities.

When your child, at three or four, builds with blocks, encourage him to finish the building he has begun, even if his bedtime or naptime must be slightly delayed.

If he wishes to keep working at such a building over a period of days, or even weeks, encourage him to do the building where it won't need to be disturbed. He may wish to revise or add to this building over a period of many days.

As he grows older and acquires skills at making simple things with tools, let him have a workship in a corner of a room or kitchen or in the basement, where he can make things requiring hours and hours of time.

BE SURE TO express strong admiration of the things he makes and provide him with the necessary tools and materials, sometimes with desirable aid from you.

As you make simple requests or commands of him, aim to have his wholehearted attention, so he may get in mind the directions before beginning to carry them out. Early and constant practice in following such directions can be very good training.

Perhaps nothing else can be better for cultivating concentration in the young child than reading constantly to him.

Of course he can get good practice in concentration through normal play with other children where alertness to the conventional or improvised rules will prove its own reward in normal play activity and contests.

My bulletins, "Why Read to Baby and Young Child", "Self-Reliance" and "The Child Who Doesn't Concentrate", may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

2 Derailments Delay Freights In Mansfield

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Two train derailments tied up freight traffic on two railroad lines in Richland County Sunday.

Eight cars and the caboose of a 140-car Baltimore & Ohio freight train left the tracks north of Shelby, tearing up 600 feet of track. Workmen were not expected to restore traffic until some time today.

The Pennsylvania Railroad southeast of here had to halt trains after a wheel broke, sending a box car off the tracks in nearby Lucas. The car was only one of a 164-car train to jump the rails and was righted about 3½ hours after the accident.

No one was injured in either derailment.
